

Union Demands Probe Of Sinking Of Ore Carrier

DETROIT (AP) — The Coast Guard is declining comment on a demand for a congressional probe of the sinking of the ore carrier Edmund Fitzgerald in Lake Superior two years ago.

The Seafarers International Union accuses the Coast Guard of carelessness in the sinking during a storm Nov. 10, 1975. All 29 crewmen on board the huge freighter were lost.

A lawyer for the union charged the Coast Guard with failing to carry out "its obligation in regard to the saving and protecting of life at sea."

A Coast Guard spokesman in Washington declined to comment immediately.

In a letter to Rep. John Murphy, D-N.Y., attorney Victor Hanson of Detroit said Coast Guard officials "must take responsibility for the loss of life and sinking of the Fitzgerald (because of its) carelessness" in several areas.

Hanson said Wednesday the Coast Guard failed to implement recommendations made by two boards of inquiry after previous sinkings.

He said that has allowed vessels to operate with unsafe cargo loads, without inspection for structural weaknesses and with inadequate crews.

The 729-foot Fitzgerald, loaded with some 28,000 tons of taconite pellets, sank rapidly as it pitched in high waves and winds.

A Coast Guard board of inquiry in Cleveland concluded that the ship had been taking on water for several hours through leaking hatch covers.

The board recommended requiring all Great Lakes ships to be equipped with watertight bulkheads. It theorized the captain of the Fitzgerald did not realize that his vessel was taking on water and that the ship plunged to the bottom without any warning.

The Great Lakes Carriers Association has opposed the recommendation, contending that the ship more likely went down after scraping bottom on a shoal near Caribou Island.

The sailors union, however, believes the vessel broke in half on the surface and went down like a rock.

Seamen have argued that many Great Lakes ships should not be allowed to operate after October, when gale-force winds often whip up 20-foot waves.

Two other ships have broken up on the surface and sunk during November gales in recent years. They were the Carl D. Bradley in 1958 and the Daniel J. Morrell in 1966.

Rhodesia Maps Plans For Majority Rule

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Moderate black nationalists gave qualified support today to Prime Minister Ian Smith's dramatic offer to steer Rhodesia to black majority rule in one-man, one-vote elections.

A spokesman for one moderate black leader, the Rev. Ndabaningi Sithole, called Smith's offer a "decisive move...which paves the way for black and white Rhodesians to sit down together and work out a blueprint for Zimbabwe which will bring peace and prosperity to our land."

Zimbabwe is the African name for Rhodesia. Sithole heads a faction of the African National Council.

Smith did not mention a date for elections. Jeremiah Chirau, leader of the moderate black Zimbabwe United Peoples Organization, said Smith's acceptance of majority rule could mean the end of guerrilla fighting. He appealed to black nationalist guerrillas to "come home peacefully," calling them "misguided young men who think that the path of violence can lead to anything constructive."

The independent Rhodesia Herald, reflecting white middle-of-the-road thinking, called Smith's surprise support for universal adult suffrage "a dramatic start" to bring peace to Rhodesia.

Both moderate black leaders operate from within Rhodesia. There was no immediate word from black nationalist guerrilla leaders operating from Zambia and Mozambique.

Claiming the British-American peace plan has failed, Smith told a news conference Thursday he believed an internal agreement between his white minority government and moderate black leaders would end Rhodesia's bloody five-year-old guerrilla war.

Children May Lose Thai Citizenship

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — About 4,000 children of American-Thai parents are in the process of losing their Thai citizenship through a decree designed to safeguard Thailand's national security.

The children were abandoned by their fathers or are simply the product of casual unions during the Indochinese war years when the United States kept upwards of 50,000 military personnel in Thailand.

Interior Ministry officials say a 1972 decree aimed at preventing children of Vietnamese refugees from obtaining Thai citizenship now is being applied to the "Amerasians," as they are known here.

Tractorcade Visits Carter's Hometown

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — Farmers demanding higher produce prices ordered an army of tractors escorted by crop-dusting airplanes toward President Carter's hometown today for a rally.

The president was more than 650 miles away. But a shopkeeper who is also a state senator and Carter's cousin announced plans to watch and added: "We're glad to have them."

Thousands of farmers spent Thanksgiving night at meeting points near this southwestern Georgia hamlet, preparing to drive their tractors into Plains for the rally.

The farmers want Congress to set a floor price on agricultural products that would ensure that they will get back their production costs and at least a small profit when they sell their harvest.

Unless Congress takes action on the farmers' demands, farmers across the country have vowed to go on strike starting Dec. 14.

As the farmers prepared their demonstration, Carter was at the presidential retreat in Camp David, Md. His mother, Miss Lillian, was home in Plains, but it was not known whether she or the president's brother, Billy, planned to watch the "tractorcade."

State Sen. Hugh Carter, the president's cousin, said he had not been invited to the rally but he planned to be in his antique store on Plains' main street, a good vantage point for watching almost anything in the tiny downtown area.

"All I know is they will be here," he said. "I'm sure they are welcome here and we're glad to have them."

Directors of the Georgia Agriculture Aviation Association voted unanimously late last week to hold a "fly-over" of 25 to 40 crop-dusting planes during the rally to show their support for the farmers' cause.

Tom Kersey, the Unadilla, Ga., farmer who helped organize the farm protest movement in the Southeast, had said he expected 10,000 tractors at the rally.

He said at least 1,000 tractors stayed overnight in Americus on Thursday, 450 in Reynolds, 1,000 in Albany, 1,000 in Smithfield, 500 in Vienna and several hundred in Cordele.

The decree reflects Thai suspicion of the tens of thousands of Vietnamese who fled to Thailand in the 1950s after the French war in Vietnam.

Successive Thai governments have said some of the Vietnamese were Communist agents or at least easy targets for conversion to Communism.

Thailand has been flooded by Vietnamese refugees who escaped their homeland after the Communist takeover in 1975, and the Thai government is constantly tightening restrictions against them.

Loss of Thai nationality will deprive the children of the right to vote or participate in the Thai government when they grow up. Officials say they also may have trouble getting government jobs and could face travel restrictions.

Robert M. Hearn, head of the Pearl S. Buck Foundation in Thailand, an international child relief agency, said the children might, through a complicated process, be eligible for U.S. citizenship. But Hearn said this "would be meaningless."

The children "live in Thai homes, with Thais. They're not going anywhere. Maybe one in a thousand would be interested in becoming an American," Hearn told The Associated Press in an interview.

The foundation sponsors 1,227 "Amerasian" children, taking care of their welfare and schooling, providing counseling services and other help through funds from American donors.

Investigation Of Accident Is Completed

The investigation of the motor vehicle accident which occurred Nov. 14 between a Pickaway County Sheriff's cruiser and a car operated by Kevin Egbert has been completed.

The investigative officers were under the supervision of Lt. D. S. Kohn, commander of Circleville Ohio State Highway Patrol Post 65. The second phase of every fatal accident is a review of the investigation by the prosecutor who decides the state's position. In this instance, John R. Adkins, law director of the city of Circleville, made the review.

Adkins said no citations have or will be issued for violations of motor vehicle traffic laws. "It is the opinion of the investigating officers that the accident involved many complex causative factors by the parties, primary of which was failure to signal and yield the right of way upon making a left turn," Adkins said.

The accident occurred when Deputy Sheriff R. L. Phillips and M. F. Hoffman were responding to an injury accident four tenths of a mile north of Durrett Road on State Route 104. They were in a marked car utilizing emergency equipment. Egbert's car was stopped or nearly stopped at the right of State Route 104 within the intersection of Durrett Road. As the sheriff's cruiser approached the intersection traveling left of center to pass, the Egbert vehicle suddenly turned left. The resulting accident caused Egbert's death, the injury of his passengers and the injury of the deputies.

WASHINGTON (AP) — James B. Cardwell says something is out of whack with the federal retirement and Social Security systems.

He is in a position to know.

Cardwell, at age 55, is retiring as commissioner of Social Security after a 35-year government career in which he rose through the ranks from a clerk earning $1,440 a year to his current $50,000-a-year post.

When he leaves in mid-December, he will begin drawing a government pension of about $24,000 and — for the first time in his life — will begin paying taxes into the Social Security system.

Cardwell is taking a top financial job at the Corporation for Public Broadcasting, a private entity, that will pay $53,000 annually. He frankly admits that he wishes his new job was not covered by Social Security because he does not expect to work the 8 1/4 years he would need to qualify for Social Security benefits.

"If I could look at it very selfishly, I would like to err on the side of not participating in Social Security after having gone this long without participating," he explained in an interview. "But that would be very selfish and I'm willing to pay my share, even if it never accrues to me."

Cardwell also wants to avoid becoming a member of a group he has criticized in the past: double-dippers who draw both a federal pension and Social Security benefits.

Although Civil Service pensions are designed to be self-sufficient, about 44 per cent of all retired federal workers draw benefits from both systems.

Some federal employees gain Social Security coverage for work they did before or after their government service. Others moonlight, including a large number of the lower-paid clerical workers, Cardwell said.

But the double-dipping controversy

Weather

Travelers warnings this afternoon with snow expected to accumulate from one to three inches and the high today in the upper 30's. Snow, windy and turning much colder tonight with a low in the lower 20's. Colder Saturday with snow and temperatures in the low to middle 20's. Chances of precipitation, 60 percent today, 80 percent tonight and 50 percent Saturday. Wednesday's high was 54 with a low of 38 while Thursday's high was 45 with a low of 28.

lead to anything constructive."

Social Security pays a minimum monthly benefit of $114 to workers who retire at 65, regardless of how much they earned or contributed. This benefit is weighted to help a person who was presumed to be a lifetime low-wage earner.

Cardwell says the system was built around averages and lacks any method to weed out people who were simply under Social Security for a short time from those who were "truly low wage earners who deserve the minimum."

The bill to refinance the Social Security system that is now in a House-Senate conference committee would make changes to eliminate some of the windfalls. The Senate version would limit how much the federal pensioner could draw from Social Security as a dependent.

Betty Talmadge Faces Life As Divorcee

WASHINGTON (AP) — At age 24, Betty Talmadge was the youngest first lady Georgia ever had. As a senator's wife, she managed her own million-dollar business.

Now, as the former wife of Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., she's trying to be "one small voice for those of us who are left like dangling particles, trying to decide what to do with the rest of our life."

Mrs. Talmadge, 54, won't talk about her divorce. There are still legal problems about the property settlement and she says it's better not to discuss any of it.

Back on Dec. 29, she learned from a television news show that her husband had filed for divorce earlier in the day. His action came a week after their 35th anniversary.

Two days later, she told reporters she was shocked and surprised at what her husband had done. "I just don't know what I'll do," she said.

Now, she says: "I guess I'm still upset. But you know, I've learned a lot."

The divorce, granted last month, made her realize, she says, that she was not alone, that millions of women face the question of what to do with their lives when a marriage ends.

"Sure, there's a sense of failure," she says. "There's hurt and humiliation. But I'm walking on. I'm just doing the best I can. I'm looking out for myself, because ... I really have no choice."

The divorce is still very much on her mind. The last chapter of a cookbook she recently wrote exhorts women to prepare for the day they might be left alone.

"Find something to do with your time," she advises. "Get active in something and then become the best there is. Whether it's sewing or baking bread or being a lawyer, become an expert. Don't wait until all the children are grown and gone before finding something rewarding to do with your life."

Or go back to school. "It gives you a lift — a new vitality and insight to be with young people again," she says.

She knows she was more fortunate than most women facing the end of a marriage.

She started a lucrative business curing and selling hams in the early 1950s, when Talmadge was the governor of Georgia. By the time she sold it in 1969 it had annual sales of $3.5 million.

She's still in the meat business with Betty Talmadge and Associates and has just launched her book, "How to Cook a Pig and Other Back-to-the-Farm Recipes." First lady Rosalynn Carter wrote the foreword.

"I don't know how I would have survived ... without my business and the book," Mrs. Talmadge said in an interview.

And she said she could not have made it without the psychiatrist she's been going to on and off for 13 years.

"He taught me to believe in myself. You can live without a lot of things but you can't make it through life without self-respect."

came to some finalities so that we can bring to an end the kind of madness which exists today where Rhodesians are killing Rhodesians at a pretty fair pace," Smith said.

Chirau, who leaves Saturday for a trip to the United States and Britain to boost international support for his organization, told a group of white farmers in the town of Marandellas, about 30 miles south of Salisbury, that whites would not enjoy privileged status in a black majority-ruled Rhodesia.

"Most of Zimbabwe's people are black so you must understand that there can be no question of the continuation of the privileged position which the white section of the community has enjoyed for so long," he said.

However, Chirau said existing Rhodesian security forces should be retained, white-led but including about four-fifths blacks in the lower ranks. The suggestion was an apparent reference to Smith's insistence on a secure future for the white minority.

"With all parties inside the country agreeing to come together to discuss a future constitution based on majority rule, the terrorist war should cease," Joseph Masangamoi, spokesman for Bishop Abe Muzorewa's African National Council, said in a published interview that several "non-negotiable conditions" were still outstanding. These include a general amnesty for political detainees and restrictees; an end to political trials, and suspension of detentions and executions.

However, the Rhodesian military command refused to comment on reports that its ground and air forces have invaded neighboring black-ruled Mozambique in search of black Rhodesian guerrillas. There have been no reports of casualties.

A spokesman for the Mozambique general staff in the capital of Maputo said the raid began Wednesday morning near the border town of Chimio. Stiff fighting was reported in progress Thursday.

Mozambique is used as a launching pad for cross-border raids by Rhodesia's black nationalist guerrillas fighting to topple Smith's minority government. The Rhodesian military command has admitted making several attacks on Mozambique "in hot pursuit" of the guerrillas.

Elsewhere in southern Africa, at least 19 persons were injured when a bomb planted in a flowerpot exploded Thursday in an underground shopping mall in Johannesburg, South African officials said. Justice Minister James T. Kruger claimed urban terrorists were responsible.

The Rhodesian prime minister launched his initiative at a news conference in the city of Bulawayo, 225 miles southwest of Salisbury. It was the first time Smith had expressed support for the concept of national elections in Rhodesia based on universal adult suffrage.

But Smith stressed he would seek guarantees from moderate black leaders that Rhodesia's white minority — estimated at 268,000 — would enjoy a secure future under the 6.4 million blacks. He said the guarantees would include judicial impartiality, the maintenance of law and order and special representation for minority groups.

White House Spokesman Jody Powell, reacting to Smith's statement, told reporters in Camp David, Md. where President Carter is spending the Thanksgiving holiday: "We'll be studying it with interest."

The British Foreign Office declined comment, but an official privately predicted failure for Smith's attempt at an internal settlement.

"To achieve peace in Rhodesia it is vital to have international acceptance of any settlement," the official said.

Percy Trying To Ban Liquid Protein

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., wants the Food and Drug Administration to prohibit the sale of liquid protein, but the agency says it may face lengthy legal problems if it tries to do so.

A spokesman for Percy said the senator's staff has been told by the FDA that the agency plans to propose a regulation on Monday declaring the diet aids unsafe and ordering them off the market.

The FDA has not confirmed such plans. But an agency spokesman said the FDA has not ruled out a ban on the product sometime in the future.

The legal battle would revolve around the question of whether liquid protein, the fast diet food substitute which officials say may be linked to at least 10 deaths, is actually a food, a drug, or food additive.

If it is a food, as claimed by some of its supporters, the Food and Drug Administration would have little authority over it except to assure it is accurately labeled and free of contamination.

If it would be found a food additive or a drug, the agency would be allowed to require manufacturers to prove that the product is safe and effective in treating the medical problem for which it is intended.

Recently the FDA ordered that liquid protein — sold over the counter under many different brand names — include a warning label that its use might be dangerous. That requirements is expected to go into effect within two months, agency officials said.

But Percy, the ranking Republican on the Senate Select Committee on Nutrition and Human Needs, said Thursday the warning is not enough and that the product should be banned.

The FDA said liquid protein may be linked to at least 10 deaths, although the agency said the official cause for those deaths remains heart irregularities.

Scientists who have analyzed the dark syrupy liquids say they contain low-quality, partially digested protein derived from cattle hides and tendons. Artificial flavor and saccharin are added to disguise the otherwise horrid taste.

Girl Becomes Eleventh Victim

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An aspiring actress-model became the 11th victim in a series of murders of young females whose partially clothed or nude bodies have been turning up under bushes and shrubs in northern suburbs for more than a month.

An autopsy Thursday on the body of Jane Evelyn King, 28, found near a freeway in Griffith Park, showed she had been strangled, as had all but two of the other victims.

Totals for the county are broken down as $343,973.32 for transportation and basic allowances, minus deductions of $12,888 for school employees retirement and $64,241.86 for state teachers retirement.

He additionally reported $3,159,028.77 was distributed to 47 joint vocational school districts representing their November allotment. The 87 county boards of education received $2,714,169.95 for the month.

The State Teachers' Retirement System will receive $17,805,654.21 and the School Employees' Retirement System will receive $4,349,526.64 as the employers' share of the pension program for November, Ferguson added.

The 185 city school districts divided $32,495,827.43 while the 377 local school districts split $23,512,057.44. The 49 exempted village school districts shared $2,933,330.41 of the disbursement Ferguson said.

State School Foundation Subsidy payments are sent to the 88 county auditors who distribute the amounts due the districts within the respective counties.

Payments to the joint vocational school districts are sent directly to the districts' clerk-treasurers.

A Page Of Opinion

Out Of Sight

How easy it is for the best of intentions to fall under the force of old habits is revealed by a Library of Congress study of obedience to a new sunshine law by federal regulatory agencies.

Under the law, the agencies are required to hold most of their meetings in public sessions or cite publicly specific reasons for holding secret meetings. Of 1,003 meetings held by 32 agencies during the course of this year, 527 were closed to the public completely or in part.

In only 193 cases were reasons given for the public being barred. Once again it has been demonstrated that a large part of the public's business continues to be conducted out of the public's sight, even in violation of the law. Is anyone in the White House listening?

Abandoned Dad

By JIM BISHOP

The ambulance was doubleparked. The red eye winked. A few windows went up. It was a cheap neighborhood. The old flats leaned weakly against each other. A sign over a stoop said: Furnished Rooms. Some boys in old mackinaws thought the ambulance was "neat."

The intern took the steps two at a time. On the third floor a stout woman wrung her hands. She was the landlady. Through an open door, the physician saw everything at once: the old man on the floor, the worn linoleum, a bare table, a rocker with a cotton pad at the head.

"How long has he been like this?" He peeled the eyelids back, unbuttoned the old sweater and shirt, and crouched to listen to the fading footsteps of the heart. He refolded the stethoscope, felt the waxen skin and noted the thin, blue lips pulling air against toothless gums.

"How long?" The woman shrugged. "I have to chase him once a week for the rent." A policeman joined the group. The doctor cleaned the inside of the elbow with a cotton swab and made a puncture. "Cardiac," he said for the cop's notebook. "Malnutrition, too."

The ambulance attendant wrapped the old man in warm blankets. With the help of the doctor, they negotiated the rickety stairs and the odors of rancid cooking. The policeman could get the identification.

The bus took off mourning shrilly. The cop questioned the woman. He didn't like this assignment because there was no crime involved. There was nothing worthy of his skills. He ransacked the room like a considerate burglar.

There was a bowl with caked cereal on the bottom. An iron cot had an army blanket folded on top. Behind the door was a towel rack. There was a dresser with folded underwear and two shirts. On top stood two photographs.

One was a pretty woman smiling. She was young; her long hair swirled loosely to the top of her head. On the back was a curling, yellowed clipping. It was dated September 1932 and announced the death of Mrs. Kenneth Keighly. The other photo depicted two little girls and the old man. The old man looked young and muscular.

There was no clipping on the back. The cop found an old tin box. It had once been green. He forced the catch. Inside there were records of Kenneth Keighly. He had worked as a compositor on an Ohio newspaper. Apparently, he had brought the children up alone.

A separate note said that, in case of emergency, to please notify Mrs. R. K., former superintendent of nurses; or Mrs. P. Mc., a high school principal. The policeman studied the photo of the little girls again.

The old man must have given the children good educations. On a shelf over the iron cot, the policeman found a pair of bronzed infant shoes and a bundle of letters held together with string.

He pulled the string. A half-dozen snapshots fell to the floor. These were young family groups. On the back, in a shaky hand, the old man had written the names and birthdates of grandchildren. The cop became interested.

He read the letters. They were signed: "Love, Miriam." "Kisses, Jane." All of them had a common tone. Matters were not going well. One child had measles. A husband had to pay for an automobile accident. The mortgage payments were heavy.

"It is useless to come here. With my crazy Indians, you would have no privacy. It is best that you stay in Columbus." "You're not young anymore, and it would be like having a fifth child..." "Your Social Security should be more than enough."

In the hospital, the intern watched the nurses wheel the old man into the emergency room. The big dome light revealed the old man for what he was: nothing. The doctor ordered oxygen. He yanked the blankets down to the trousers. He used the stethoscope again. The young man listened for a long time. "Forget it," he said softly. "He's gone." He ran his knowing fingers over the cooling rib cage. He looked up in outrage. "Who the hell starves to death in a big city?"

The nurse spoke softly. "Stay a minute, doctor," she said softly. "I have to search his clothes for effects and I want you to watch." She frisked his trousers and found nothing. The limp sweater was flopping off the limp wrists.

"Something," she said, feeling in a pocket. She pulled it out. It was a tiny wood pedestal with a miniature loving cup on top. It said: "To the World's Greatest Dad."

Security Deposit Policy Ended By Eastern Ohio Gas

CLEVELAND (AP) — East Ohio Gas Co. said it will stop its policy of requiring security deposits from customers who miss payments.

East Ohio said next month it will send out refunds totaling $2 million to about 40,000 residential customers for deposits collected last winter.

David Talbott, company spokesman, estimated the average credit at $52 per customer. The credits will be deducted from December bills.

The refunds go to customers who had allowed one to five bills fall at least 60 days behind within a 12-month period, Talbott said.

They were required to pay a deposit to avoid having their gas shut off under a policy adopted by East Ohio a year ago during a period of natural gas shortage.

Cleveland Councilman Basil Russo and Council President George Forbes held a series of talks with company officials. Under an agreement the two sides reached, the company promised not to require such deposits in the future, Russo said.

Without the agreement, customers would have had to wait until they were no longer East Ohio customers before they could get the deposits back. That could be 30 or 40 years, Russo said. During that time, the company would earn interest on the money, he added.

Talbott estimated the number of customers involved is 4 percent of East Ohio's 923,000 residential customers in 18 counties.

There are 112 million Americans who wear corrective lenses for some vision defect, and 94 percent of people over 65 years of age require vision correction.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, Nov. 25, the 329th day of 1977. There are 36 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1783, the British evacuated New York, their last military position in the United States in the Revolutionary War.

On this date: In 1758, in the French and Indian War, the British captured Fort Duquesne at what is now Pittsburgh. In 1863, Union troops captured Missionary Ridge, ending the Civil War battle of Lookout Mountain in Tennessee.

In 1920, station WTAO of College Station, Texas, broadcast the first play-by-play description of a football game — between the University of Texas and Texas A&M.

In 1957, it was disclosed that President Dwight D. Eisenhower had suffered a slight stroke.

In 1965, President Joseph Kasavubu of the Congo was deposed in a bloodless military coup led by Maj. Gen. Joseph Mobutu.

Ten years ago: More than 75 people, many of them children, died in the South American country of Colombia after eating bread contaminated by an insecticide.

Five years ago: New Zealand's Labour Party swept into office in an unexpected election victory over the National Party government, which had been in power for 12 years.

One year ago: Italian and Vatican negotiators agreed in principle to sweeping revision of a 1929 concordat which referred to the Roman Catholic religion as Italy's state religion.

Today's birthdays: John Kennedy Jr. is 17 years old. Composer Virgil Thompson is 81. Former baseball star Joe Di Maggio is 63.

Thought for today: No one can make you feel inferior without your consent — former First Lady Eleanor Roosevelt, 1884-1962.

The cost of smoking went up for Circleville residents when the price of cigarettes increased from 15 to 16 cents a pack. Cigar smokers also suffered in the price boost when their pleasure smokes went up a penny in price.

A pair of fine sorrels were seriously injured when they were attacked by a vicious tusked boar in a barn in Stoutsville area.

Circleville school children were dismissed from classes to help conduct another big scrap salvage drive in the city.

Crews of pupils operating under the direction of Tom Armstrong, assistant coach, canvassed the city, going house to house in an effort to pile up another big collection of iron and various other metals to be put to work for Uncle Sam.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I am a victim of sciatica. I say "victim" because when it strikes me, I am totally incapacitated and trapped. I know that the cause is unknown, but are there any leads to the possible cause at this time?

Mr. J. R., Utah

Dear Mr. R.: Actually the causes for sciatica are known. In fact, there are so many reasons for it that often it is difficult to track down the exact reason for it. Because the sciatic nerve is one of the longest nerves in the body, running down the length of the back to the thigh and leg, it is particularly vulnerable to irritation, inflammation, injury, and infection.

Birth Rate

NEW YORK (AP) — The United States' birth rate, which has been dropping steadily since 1959, seems to be leveling off around 14.7 live births per 1,000 persons, according to the American Council of Life Insurance.

The Council says the U.S. Bureau of Census predicts an increase of eight per cent by 1980 in the number of child-bearing age. This factor will push up the number of births slightly, as it has in recent years.

Women in the 20-29 age group, which is the period of greatest fertility, account for a large part of this increase, the Council said.

sitting in one position for a long time, herniated disks of the spine, injuries, and circulatory problems can all be responsible.

Chronic alcoholism, lead poisoning, overuse of tobacco, and syphilis may be factors. I mention so many only to illustrate the fact that it takes considerable work and cooperation between you and your doctor to track down its specific cause.

Consultation between the physician, a neurologist, and an orthopedic specialist can often produce an answer that is extremely helpful. They can suggest a regime of postural exercise, drugs, and physical therapy that might reduce the frequency of attacks and their severity.

I am recently married and I would like to become a mother. There is a history of birth defects in my family. Although my desire to conceive is great, I do not in any way want to jeopardize my marriage with a child that is not completely normal. What suggestions do you have to offer?

Mrs. K. T. N., Texas

Dear Mrs. N.: You have presented a problem that is of great importance. It reflects the solid, mature thinking of the modern woman.

Perhaps no area of medicine has had so many brilliant accomplishments as the field of genetics.

Previously, women with a genetic defect may have given birth to a child with a severe handicap. They then may "chance" another pregnancy in the hope that the next child would be normal. The heartache is enormous when a second child, too, is born with some malformation.

Today this need not be. The research being carried on by men like Dr. James L. German III and Dr. R.S.K. Chaganti in New York City is being duplicated all over the world. Consultation by you with an expert in genetic counseling would assuage your anxiety and be an enormous contribution to your happiness.

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — It looked perfectly logical at first glance, this defense by the nation's home mortgage lenders against complaints that rising home prices were excluding many Americans from homeownership.

New homes usually aren't meant for first-time buyers, explained economists of the U.S. League of Savings Associations, which make most of the home mortgage loans throughout the country.

"Most new homes are built for the second- or third-time buyers," they said.

An "overwhelming" 65 per cent of all new homes are bought by families "who are using the accumulated equity and appreciated value of their present homes to purchase new housing," they explained.

So what do we offer the first-time buyer who hasn't had the chance to build up much of a down payment? We offer him the used or existing home. It's "a great opportunity," they said.

More than 80 per cent of all homes sold last year were existing homes, they said. It's true. The National Association of Realtors recorded 3,002,000 such sales, a record. The number will be even higher this year.

Those existing homes are a great buy, said the U.S. League economists. The median price of a newly built home last year was $44,200, but an existing home sold for 13.6 per cent less at $38,100.

Watch those figures! Didn't we hear earlier that the people who sold the existing homes benefited not only from accumulated equity but from "appreciated value?" In other words, existing prices seem to be rising too.

How true. That median figure of $38,100 is a good one for certain purposes, but it does after all include some homes that are in very poor condition and ready to be phased out rather than lived in.

This doesn't mean there aren't bargains in existing homes. Many young couples have found, renovated, and upgraded such houses and now have accommodations superior to those who live in brand new houses.

But existing home prices aren't standing still. That $38,100 median figure has already been bumped up to about $44,000, or just about the price of last year's brand new home.

Quite understandable too. Don't forget, it's just that kind of appreciation, the U.S. League economists point out, that provides first-time owners with the equity to apply to a brand new house.

In 1976, the year in which the median price of an existing home was $38,100, more than 39 per cent of all existing home sales were at minimum prices of $50,000.

That percentage is much higher this year, as it has been every year this decade. In September, 1973, about 13.5 per cent of existing home sales were for $50,000 or more; in September 1975 the percentage was 23.1; last year, 29.1.

Existing home prices clearly are soaring, especially in the quality home category. But, yes, there are bargains. Nearly 14 per cent of existing sales this year were for $25,000 or less.

The question to be asked about the low-priced homes, however, is how many of them represent genuine bargains and how many are accommodations barely fit for habitation and not likely to appreciate?

Dear Abby:

By Abigail VanBuren

Husband Cruel To His Stepson

DEAR ABBY: I have three children from two previous marriages. My new husband of two years is a wonderful provider and husband, but by no means is he a father to my son. He gets along well with my two daughters, but he does not like my 8-year-old son. I can see the hatred growing day by day and there's no way I can stop it.

When my son asks him a question, he says, "Shut up!" When the boy asks me why Dad is so mean to him and Dad hears him, he says, "Don't go running to your mother or you'll get a whipping!"

He won't show the boy any affection because he says showing affection to a boy will turn him into a homosexual. Abby, I am stuck. I've suggested counseling, but my husband says I'm the only one who's nuts, not him.

I want us to be a happy family, but it's like butting my head against a stone wall. I've tried everything and gotten nowhere. Can you help me?

LOSING THE WAY IN GA. DEAR LOSING: Anyone who believes that showing affection to a boy will turn him into a homosexual, and that counseling is only for "nuts," is woefully ignorant. If I were you I'd go alone for counseling to learn how to handle this unreasonable man who gets along well with your two daughters but is cruel to your son. (You can bet it has something to do with his male ego and competition.)

He may be a good provider, but until he learns to be a loving, fair and patient father to your son, he's no bargain. Think about it.

DEAR ABBY: I am 14 and live with my grandparents because my mother is an alcoholic. Mom comes here once in a while and sobers up, then she goes out and starts drinking again. Abby, I love my mother, in spite of all the heartaches she has caused our whole family. I have begged, pleaded, cried and prayed, but it hasn't done any good. Mother says she loves us and would do anything for us, but she still drinks.

She has lost two husbands and four children from drinking. Can you help me?

HER DAUGHTER

DEAR DAUGHTER: Try to persuade your mother to seek the help of Alcoholics Anonymous. (They're listed in your telephone book.) Thousands of alcoholics have found this to be the only hope for sobriety, when everything else has failed.

There is also an organization called "ALATEEN" especially for teenagers whose parents have a drinking problem. Call them! They will teach you how to cope with your problem. Good luck, honey.

DEAR ABBY: I recently went to a friend's home for tea. I knew it was her birthday, so I took along a little gift. She thanked me for it, put it out of sight, and never did open it while I was there. I felt very hurt. None of the other guests brought a gift.

The next day she telephoned and thanked me for the gift. Don't you think she should have opened it when I gave it to her, and thanked me then?

HURT

DEAR HURT: No. She probably didn't want to embarrass the guests who didn't know (or had forgotten) that it was her birthday.

Judges Will Get Substantial Pay Raise

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's judges will get a substantial raise in pay if the Senate goes along next year with a measure already approved by the House.

But if Sen. Robert D. Freeman, D-Canton, has his way, the state's 70,000 employees will get one, too, of 50 cents an hour.

Freeman says he has been inundated with complaints from workers back home, such as those in liquor stores, state employment offices and state institutions who have made it clear "in no uncertain terms they intend to press their demands."

"I'm really afraid all of them are ready to walk out," the senator said during this week's abbreviated session of the legislature.

The former Stark County commissioner admitted he doesn't know at this stage where the money for the across-the-board increase can be found, but added the legislature is going to have to try.

The judges' bill gives jurists from the municipal bench all the way to the Ohio Supreme Court major increases — more than 30 percent in some instances. They haven't had an increase since November 1973, and the bill just about compensates for cost-of-living increases since that time, sponsors say.

State employees, including those at state universities and in county welfare departments, had their last increase in the 1975-1977 budget, in many cases it was as little as 27 cents an hour.

That increase accompanied a broad reclassification of state workers which resulted in some getting up to $1 an hour more. However, that group was a small minority.

The judges' pay raise, currently slated to take effect next April 1, would cost $6.1 million during the remainder of the 1977-1979 biennium — with $4.2 million coming from the state and $1.9 million from local governments which share the cost of paying judges.

Freeman's proposal obviously involves a lot more money — about $90 million in the period from April 1978 until the end of the biennium July 1, 1979.

The Ohio AFL-CIO has slammed a Republican leader, specifically, and the news media, generally, for "nonsensical" post-election analyses of the repeal of instant registration.

But the labor union also gave Rep. Charles Kurfess a presumably inadvertent promotion in its "News and Views" newsletter.

"One of the most nonsensical statements was in a letter to the editor, by House Majority Leader Charles F. Kurfess, who at last report, was running for governor," the union said.

At last report, Kurfess, of Perrysburg, was House minority leader, a distinct minority at that. He served three terms as speaker of the House in the late 1960s and early 1970s, when Republicans had control.

Soybean Breeder Offers Seeding Suggestions

WOOSTER, Ohio (AP) — It would seem farmers have every right to think the seeds that gave them their best soybean crop this year or last should be used next year.

It ain't necessarily so.

Dr. A. K. Walker, soybean breeder and agronomist at the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center, says farmers should consider, and use, their options.

Last year's high yielding soybean variety may not perform as well in a future year and it could cost farmers income.

During the American Society of Agronomy meeting in Los Angeles last week, Walker said farmers can protect themselves by dividing their acreage and growing two or more highyielding varieties in separate pure stands. Or they can mix seed from several high-yielding varieties and grow the mixture on the entire acreage.

Walker made yield tests in Iowa the past two years to determine the number of high yielding soybean varieties which should be grown in mixtures or pure stands to obtain highest yield and stability in different environmental settings. He had six test locations and used two to 14 varieties in separate pure and mixture tests.

The results indicated that generally the mixtures provide slightly more stability of yield than obtained by pure stands. But Walker said some pure stands were as stable as the mixes.

In another soybean discussion at the meeting, Dr. R. L. Cooper of the OARDC said many existing varieties tend to produce too much vegetation and some get so tall they fall over, causing harvesting problems.

Cooper said yields of 60-70 bushels per acre are difficult when plants get five feet tall.

He said one solution is a semi-dwarf soybean variety he developed at the University of Illinois in 1969. It is named Elf and Cooper said it is truly a new variety of soybean. It attains a mature height of 20-30 inches and has averaged five bushels per acre more than the Williams variety when planted in 30-inch rows in high yield environments. Yield can average 10 bushels per acre more than Williams when planted in seven-inch rows.

Cooper said the new variety is readily distinguishable from Williams and other northern U.S. varieties by its pod clustering at the ends of branches and its short stature.

Cooper has moved his research on the semi-dwarf seed to the Wooster research center and is now studying the effect of row spacings and seeding rates for optimum yields.

Kissinger Named Consultant

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger will be a consultant for a new think-tank operation called the Center for the Study of the American Experience.

The announcement was made Tuesday by Dean Frederick Williams of the University of Southern California.

Kissinger had talked previously with John Hubbard, president of USC, about becoming director of the center, which is part of the Annenberg School of Communications.

Williams said Kissinger was unable to accept the job because of other commitments.

Instead, the Nobel Peace Prize winner will help the university find a director, help plan programs and choose the candidates to study at the center.

A $10 million contract from the foundation of Walter Annenberg, former U.S. ambassador to the Court of St. James in London, will fund the center.

Travelers Advisories In Effect

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Heavy snow warnings or travelers advisories are in effect for most of Ohio today.

An intensifying storm center near Chicago was causing heavy snow over a four-state area early this morning. The National Weather Service says this storm is moving east. Snow should begin over most of Ohio by early afternoon today.

Heavy snow warnings are in effect for the northern third of the state for this afternoon and tonight, with accumulations of 4 inches possible by this evening.

Travelers advisories are in effect for the central part of the state, where accumulations of 1 to 3 inches are possible by this evening.

While some snow is possible in the extreme south, accumulations would probably be an inch or less.

Snow is likely to continue tonight with additional accumulations, especially in the snow belt areas of northeastern Ohio.

NEW YORK (AP) — Legend says they're ancestral cousins, those two edgy rivals who had been breathing fury and distrust at each other until they sat down at a table together, the Arab and the Jew.

They're both Semitic peoples and according to Scriptural accounts accepted by both Moslems and Jews, they're blood cousins. It might seem odd that they've been such bitter foes. "But families are always having arguments," says Biblical historian Shaye Cohen of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America. "Family arguments always are the most ferocious."

There were hints of that sort of thing, both the entrenched antagonism and also the latent, somewhat surprised consanguinity, when Egypt's

Billy Graham Hosted By President Marcos

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham has finally been the guest of honor at a state dinner. And it didn't come in the United States.

President Ferdinand Marcos of the Philippines held the dinner Thanksgiving night for Graham.

Graham said he has dined five times with Queen Elizabeth II and many times with presidents of the United States and chancellors of West Germany but never in more than 30 years as a minister at a state dinner.

Jamaica, largely a limestone plateau, is an island which has limestone hills. Blue Mountain, on its eastern side, reaches 7,400 feet.

President Anwar Sadat and Israel's Prime Minister Menachem Begin met together.

"We liked each other," Begin put it, incredulous but pleased. "May peace be with us all, God willing," said Sadat.

Both referred to their shared roots, Sadat to the Biblical patriarch Abraham, "forefather of Arabs and Jews," and Begin to the "racial kinship and ancient bonds" between Arab and Jewish people.

Their family ties go back to the sons of Abraham: Ishmael, born of Hagar, Egyptian maid of Abraham's wife Sarah, who had urged the affair so her aging husband could get a son, and Isaac, born later to the aging Sarah, amazed to laughter that she finally could bear a child herself.

Ishmael's offspring are considered the Arabs, as affirmed by the founder of Islam, Mohammed. Isaac bore the Jewish line. The fathers of the two lines were half-brothers, the uncles and the descendant cousins.

After Ishmael and Isaac became toddlers, Sarah on seeing them playing happily together, urged Abraham to throw out the servant woman and her son for he "shall not be heir with my son, Isaac."

This annoyed Abraham because Ishmael was a son, too; but with divine prompting Abraham did as Sarah wished, since Abraham's descendants would be named through Isaac, although Ishmael also would sire a nation.

A "great nation," says Genesis 21:18. The boy grew up in the wilderness, becoming an expert bowman. He took an Egyptian wife. His descendants would be so many "they cannot be numbered for multitude," was the Biblical promise of him in Genesis 16.

Isaac married Rebekah, the parents of the Jewish patriarch Jacob.

President Sadat, citing the ancestral ties between Jews, quoted from the Koran:

"We believe in God and what has been revealed to us and what was revealed to Abraham, Ishmael, Isaac, Jacob and the 13 Jewish tribes. And in the books given to Moses and Jesus and the prophets from their Lord, who made no distinction between them."

Parents make wishes too

Every year there's one more candle. Jeannie makes a wish — and blows them all out with a single breath.

Jeannie's parents make wishes too. But grown-ups' wishes are called hopes, and they can't be achieved by merely blowing out candles.

Jeannie's parents take her to church every Sunday. There she learns right from wrong and acquires the faith that will sustain her throughout life.

At candle-blowing-time her mother and father smile. It's a smile of confidence, of conviction. They know that their hopes for Jeannie can best be realized in a Christian environment.

Duck Hunting Season 'Worst In Memory'

If duck hunting in Ohio's southern zone is anything like it has been up north, waterfowlers might as well

Prince Can't Pick Who He Kisses

LONDON (AP) — When one is a prince, one never can tell whom one is kissing.

It now turns out that an Australian beauty Prince Charles of England kissed publicly in Adelaide on Nov. 9 apparently was a part-time actress in blue movies.

Pictures of Charles, 29, kissing Sylvia Cresnar, 28, on the lips while he was on a tour of Australia appeared in newspapers around the world.

The woman initially was identified as a shop assistant.

But Charles told 900 guests at a charity banquet Thursday night: "I understand she was a part-time actress in blue movies."

He cautioned the banquet guests not to believe everything they read in newspapers.

"They claimed I grabbed a lady in the crowd in Australia and planted a smacking kiss on her," he said. "In fact, it was the other way around. These things are inevitable and one must relax and enjoy oneself."

pack up their guns and hope for better things next year.

For most hunters in the northern zone, the season which ends Nov. 26 has been one of the worst in memory.

It was so bad that hunters in one marsh near Sandusky Bay, for example, bagged only 17 ducks as of last week compared with about 150 by the same time last year.

Another marsh on a major flyway has been hunted daily this year but has accounted for fewer than 25 ducks bagged.

The miserable results are not limited to a few random areas. Private clubs, public shooting areas and even the well-managed Magee Marsh, open to tightly regulated public shooting on a lottery basis, have experienced the same thing.

As usual, the weather takes primary blame for the lack of hunting success.

The major problem was the combination of extended warm, wet weather in Canada and a strong storm front that blew down from the provinces through Ohio at about midseason, according to Jack Weeks, waterfowl biologist and assistant manager of Crane Creek Experiment Station on Lake Erie.

In Canada, he said, a wet fall prevented final harvesting of cut wheat. Mild weather encouraged ducks in major provincial staging areas to stay north, gorging on the cut wheat longer than usual, Weeks added.

When severe weather finally did force the ducks south, the storm front moved with them and many migrants continued on without stopping in Ohio as they normally do, he said.

At peak times in normal years up to 100,000 ducks may stop over to rest and feed in Northern Ohio. This year that total never was achieved, Weeks said.

Aerial surveys of the Lake Erie marsh region last week turned up 55,000 to 65,000 ducks, most of them on the open lake and bay. In addition, some 60,000 common mergansers, usually the last species to migrate, were counted.

Compounding the problem was the fact that the period of greatest duck concentrations in Ohio coincided with mild weather and moonlit nights. As a result, waterfowl fed in cut grainfields or in the marshes at night, then moved back to open water to rest during the day, Weeks explained.

Magee Marsh, part of the Crane Creek State Park complex, normally records an average kill of two ducks per hunter during controlled hunts there. This year that figure has dropped to 1.4 ducks per hunter. And there have been two days when 40 hunters have bagged an average total of 12 ducks, which is extremely poor by Magee standards.

Amanda VFD Plans Square Dance

The band will be Hard Times with Lewis Warthman as caller. All proceeds are for the department's building fund.

Waterfowling in the southern zone, which lies south of I-70, opened Nov. 17 and runs through Dec. 31.

The outlook there is uncertain, according to Weeks. It appears that the heaviest flight of ducks has moved out of the state, he said. But if ducks remaining in northern Ohio push south in scattered departures as marshes freeze, shooting in the southern zone could go reasonably well.

Elvehjem Center Acquires Chalice

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The Elvehjem Art Center recently acquired a Greek red-figured kylix painted by the Penthesilea Painter about 455 B.C. The tondo design of the chalice is of Herakles and the Bull. A missing fragment from the tondo is in the Louvre. A similar kylix by the same painter, depicting Achilles slaying the Amazon Queen, Penthesilea, is in Munich. The chalice is a gift of the Stiemke Foundation in Milwaukee as a memorial to the late Walter H. Stiemke.

Grandparents Lloyd and Kathryn Whisler returned home last Friday after spending 10 days with Ed Lee, Rose and the little girls.

Funeral service was held on Nov. 16th for Eugene Weaver, 54, of Hickory, N.C. who died on Nov. 13th of a heart attack. The youngest of 12 children, he was the son of the late William and Rozell (Kate) Ebert Weaver who lived in the area of the Salt Creek School in Pickaway County.

Survivors are his wife, Nita, of Hickory, N.C.; two daughters, Mrs. Ronnie (Jean) Bowman of the Bethlehem community in N.C., and Mrs. Malcolm (Kay) Milstead of Hickory; two grandchildren, and of his eleven sisters and brothers, only one sister, Mrs. Denver (Lorena) Hinton, and one brother, Lester Weaver, both of Lancaster, survive, along with many nieces and nephews.

Mr. and Mrs. Weaver and Mr. and Mrs. Hinton and their daughter Lori returned to Lancaster from North Carolina last Thursday after attending the funeral on Wednesday in the St. Stephens Lutheran Church in Hickory, where Gene was a member. Burial was made in the adjoining cemetery.

On last Thursday, Mrs. Denny Drum attended the funeral of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Stanley (Gene) Notestone in the Schoedinger-Norris Chapel in Grove City. Mrs. Notestone was the former Margie Fetherolf, daughter of the late Willis and Eliza Karr Fetherolf of South Perry. Before being married she lived in Laurelville with her mother and two brothers. Survivors include five daughters, 12 grandchildren, three great grandchildren and her brothers, Willis and Harry. Mrs. Bernadine Bainter spent Thursday with Mr. Drum while Mrs. Drum attended the funeral.

The Women's Society of the Laurel Hills Church held it's monthly meeting on last Wednesday evening at the church. The opening song was "Count Your Blessings" and opening prayer was given by Mrs. Phyllis Ross. As spiritual life leader, Mrs. Ross read the complete 100th Psalm and two readings, "Thanksgiving" and "A Moment of Silence." Mrs. Robert Swepston was program leader and presented the lesson "Giving Thanks." She also read the scripture from Psalms and Ephesians and a poem "Who Has Given Thanks." As a vocal solo, she sang "Thank You Jesus."

The thank offering boxes were turned in by members of the organization and each told of something they had to be thankful for. The closing prayer was given by Mrs. Phyllis Swackhammer. Mrs. Ross and her mother, Mrs. O. V. McFadden were hostesses and served refreshments to 13 members.

On last Sunday, little Miss Kelley Nichole, infant daughter of Thomas and June Haynes of Dayton was christened in the Brookside Church of Christ in Christian Union on Egypt Pike, Chillicothe. Friends and relatives who attended the services and enjoyed dinner later at the L-K Restaurant included the baby's brother Chris, the maternal grandmother, Mrs. Helen Lively of Chillicothe, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Evans, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Boydson, son Mark and daughter Kim and Mrs. Emma Boydson all of Chillicothe, Mrs. Michael McFadden and son Jarrod of Tarlton, Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Kerr, Paul Lively and Miss Linda Martin of Laurelville. Due to illness, the paternal grandparents, Damon and Betty Haynes of Hallsville could not attend.

Members of the Laurelville Church of God held their annual Thanksgiving supper last Friday evening at the Tarlton Armory with over 200 persons enjoying the seven turkeys that had been prepared along with all the other delicious foods. On Sunday evening a film "He Restored My Soul" was shown at the church.

On Wednesday evening the Church of God held a sacrament of foot-washing and communion as in the days of Jesus when he said "As I have washed my disciples feet, you go and do also". The ladies of the church will hold their Christmas bazaar at the church on December 1st. Practice is in full swing for the Christmas program to be held later in December.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Harmon of Orient and Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Chilcote of Laurelville were last Thursday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Taylor.

Funeral services for Mrs. Carl (Mabel) Brandt of Logan were held in the Heinline-Brown funeral home in Logan last Thursday. Mrs. Brandt, who was 87 had been in ill health for some time. Only survivors are one son Robert Brandt and his wife Ruth, a grandson James Brandt and a granddaughter Jessica, all of Logan, O.

Logan Elm FHA Holds Meeting

FHA pins may be ordered soon. A Thanksgiving Party for the afternoon kindergarten class at the McDowell Exchange School was planned. Members will supply the food. Children will enjoy games such as Pin the Tail on the Donkey.

The Choco Indians of western Colombia have long used toxins from the skins of certain frogs to make poison for their blowgun darts.

In spite of the inclement weather last Sunday I had a most enjoyable day. I was invited to have dinner with Lester and Emily Weaver of Lancaster and in the afternoon Emily and I attended the 50th Wedding Anniversary celebration of my cousins, Alphons and Rita (Hope) Schaer held in the social room of the beautiful new David's Evangelical Lutheran Church in Canal Winchester. Rita, whose mother, Jeanetta Hoy, was a sister of my Dad is the oldest of 12 children who were born and raised in Perry County near Shawnee and Corning.

Of the 12, six of the family are living and all but a brother Burle of Arizona were present to enjoy the afternoon. These are Jeanetta, Nellie, Hazel and Kermit. (With that many cousins in one family, who can remember last names.) Anyway, we gathered around one table for a gab-fest and looking at old and new snapshots. I hadn't seen four of the group for 12 years, and we parted, hoping it wouldn't be that long again until we would get together. The church had been beautifully decorated by the Schaer's daughters, Mrs. Dora Jeanette Barra of Huntsville, O. and Mrs. Frances Mercer of Columbus. A son Myron who lives in Rome, Ga., was also present with his family. A daughter, Martha Grace, is deceased. Mrs. Schaer is a retired registered nurse and her husband is a retired farmer. They live on a farm near Carroll on the Amanda-Northern Road.

REMEMBER THIS? — The Red Cross was around to aid people who may have been stranded in houses such as this one during those winter storms the county experienced. It, along with other services in the area, provided shelter and other necessities when homes were impossible to reach. The Red Cross is one of the 11 agencies funded by the Community Fund.

Community Fund Aids Red Cross

Disaster relief is just one of the many services offered by the Red Cross. This winter, the relief hit home, as many stranded persons were given shelter, food and clothing while their homes were unreachable due to the snow-covered roads.

This small area is a part of the Disaster Service Agency. It provides fire relief by assisting 12 families following home fires during 1976.

Other services the Red Cross supplies regularly include first aid and water safety, the blood program, nursing, service to military families and volunteers.

Servicemen, veterans, civilians and families totaling 120 were served a total of 250 times during 1976. They received message service in family emergencies, financial assistance, transmittal of funds and counseling or referral.

The chapter has two volunteer instructor-trainers in first aid, 30 first aid instructors and 24 water safety instructors. Fifteen first aid classes were held in 1976 with 142 people receiving certificates. There were 31 swimming classes held in Circleville, Gold Cliff Park, Deercreek Park, Ashville and Clark Lakes with 200 certificates awarded. According to the files, approximately 900 people participated.

In 13 visits of the Red Cross Bloodmobile in the county, 1,754 units of blood were collected. Total coverage of blood needs for all county residents and their families was maintained at no cost to the recipient for the blood itself. During 1977, 12 visits have been scheduled with a goal of 150 units per visit. Extra visits are also planned at Orient State Institute and Ashville to help meet the continually growing need.

Home Economics teachers in all local school systems regularly use chapter equipment in classes in home nursing and child care. In cooperation with the Extension Service, the Good Neighbor 4-H Club was organized with a registered nurse as the leader. This club has continued for four years. All girls who receive instruction under these programs receive certificates. There are at present 30 Red Cross enrolled nurses in the chapter.

There are more than 100 young people volunteering in community activities through the Red Cross, and at least 250 adult volunteers working with community needs. Volunteer drivers in chapter cars have taken 1,166 patients on 711 trips to Columbus hospitals, clinics and doctors and to the Chillicothe Scioto-Point Valley Guidance Center, Ross County Medical Center, VA Hospital and Ross County Clinic.

Red Cross provides information and referral services to all community fund agencies and other health and service agencies. It cooperates with the other agencies training and information programs, as well as their services.

'Grand Illumination' Set At Ohio Village

COLUMBUS — Flickering candles, spicy wassail and the burning of a traditional yule log will open the fourth annual "Christmas At Ohio Village" celebration 7 p.m. Wednesday.

A "Grand Illumination Ceremony" will begin the evening's festivities, as small candles, symbols of the bright Christmas season, will be distributed to all those in attendance. A group of small children, accompanied by the Ohio Village Singers, will travel from shop to shop around the village square, lighting a holiday taper in each window. The procession will conclude with the burning of a yule log on the town square. Visitors will then be invited into the town hall where everyone can enjoy hot, spiced cider and sugar cookies and the children can talk with Saint Nick, who will have candy to be given away.

The Grand Illumination Ceremony will officially open the 19 day Christmas at Ohio Village celebration, which will run from 12:30 to 9:00 p.m. each Wednesday through Sunday through December 23.

Throughout the season the village will be decorated with natural arrangements, reflecting the simplicity of early Ohio Christmas observances. Pine wreaths and garlands, holly, nut rings and pine cones will adorn this early Ohio community. Several Christmas trees will be decorated with cookies, handmade ornaments, candles and strings of popcorn and cranberries.

The American House Restaurant and Colonel Crawford Inn will offer complete dining for visitors throughout the period, featuring such 19th century entrees as roast pheasant, trout, baked steak, and pork with herb stuffing. A selection of Ohio wines and beer will also be available.

Each evening the Ohio Village Singers will serenade visitors as wandering carolers. Several weekend concerts of holiday music will also be given in the town hall by the Singers.

Ohio Village offers holiday gift shoppers a unique opportunity to search out one-of-a-kind presents, many of which are handmade in the village. These range from warm, woolen scarves, to traditional Christmas cards, which may be mailed with the added charm of an Ohio Village postmark from the general store.

Ohio Village will be open from 12:30 to 9 p.m. from November 30 to December 23 and will be closed each Monday and Tuesday. Admission is $1.50 for adults and children 12 and under are free with their parents. Ohio Village is located just north of 17th Ave., off I-71 in Columbus.

Willie's Dillies

By BILL MCGAFFNEY
Herald Sports Editor

When we were kids, one of the worst things that the other guys could say about a person was that he threw like a girl...How things have changed!

Now, a lot of guys wish that they had the athletic ability of some of these pretty young things who are making a name for themselves in the world of sports.

We have always known that the prettiest girls in the world come from Pickaway County...but, now we also have some of the top female athletes around and they are getting better all the time.

Just take a look at the recent state volleyball tournament where the Pickaway County girls came up with one Sectional champion and two District runner-up trophies.

Now, the fair ones will move into the basketball picture and we expect them to keep the fine work in full swing as they take to the hardwoods. We have the coaches and cuties who can get the job done and you can bet your bottom dollar that is what they'll do.

Girls sports are here to stay and we must go on record as saying that we are all for them. Not only are they easy on the eyes but they are no longer in the "he throws like a girl class." These young ladies are fine athletes and must be given their day in the sun. They work as hard as the boys to build good teams and bring praise and recognition to their respective schools.

We have heard the old cry that "they don't bring any money into the school's sports fund...Well, we have an answer for this...Go out and watch them play...You'll like what you see and help the girls carry their share of the financial load.

Our "fearless" forecast-Vikings will romp the Rangers and level Hillsboro...Mustangs will run down the Huntsmen...Braves will be a little too strong for the Mustangs...Tigers will have the Lions Blue.

Until next time, have a nice day-be a good sport.

Trojans Will Attempt To Kill Bruins Hopes

By The Associated Press
They started it when Howard Jones was coaching at Southern Cal and Bill Spaulding at UCLA almost a half-century ago.

After the Trojans won the first game 76-0 in 1929, and then the second 52-0 in 1930, they decided that the Bruins weren't quite ready for big-league competition.

It wasn't until 1936 that the Southern Cal-UCLA series was resumed, and that year it resulted in a 7-7 tie, proving that the Bruins at last belonged in the same league with their redhot intracity rivals.

It's been that way since, and one of the nation's most legendary college football rivalries continues tonight with the usual clash of cymbals and the normally-present high stakes.

This time, however, the roles will be reversed: Southern Cal is cast in the part of spoiler, for a change. The Trojans, who in past years have made the Rose Bowl almost a permanent home, will be trying to knock UCLA out of it and at the same time, make a dash for the Bluebonnet Bowl.

A victory over the 17th-ranked Bruins will get Southern Cal that consolation prize and allow 14th-ranked Washington to sneak into the Rose Bowl on Jan. 2 for the first time since 1962.

Before the Trojans and Bruins meet tonight, two other bowl pictures will be cleared up. The winner of the Oklahoma-Nebraska game earlier in the day claims the Big Eight championship and a trip to the Orange Bowl against Arkansas Jan. 2. The loser's consolation prize will be a Dec. 19 date at the Liberty Bowl to play North Carolina.

Third-ranked Oklahoma needs a victory or a tie in the big game while No. 11 Nebraska must win to get a shot at the Razorbacks in the Orange Bowl.

The Razorbacks enhanced their Orange Bowl role with a comeback 17-14 victory over scrappy Texas Tech Thursday. The Red Raiders, a Tangerine Bowl entrant, held a 14-3 lead at halftime of the Thanksgiving Day game before the sixth-ranked Razorbacks scored twice on touchdown passes by Ron Cargani.

In other Thanksgiving Day games, Larry Fortner's 10-yard touchdown pass to Paul Warth in the final period sparked Miami of Ohio over Cincinnati 12-7 and Ricky Patton ran 85 yards for a TD in the fourth period, leading Jackson State over Alcorn State 23-16.

Meanwhile, several other traditional rivals will be waiting in the wings for Saturday's competition.

Among them will be Pitt and Penn State, both bowl-bound. The Nittany Lions are heading for the Dec. 25 Fiesta Bowl and Arizona State hopes to be waiting for them. The Sun Devils need a victory over Arizona tonight to clinch a piece of the Western Athletic Conference crown. Pitt will play Clemson Dec. 30 in the Gator Bowl.

Second-ranked Alabama, preparing for a Jan. 2 Sugar Bowl date against Ohio State, plays Auburn. Louisiana State, which plays Stanford in the Dec. 31 Sun Bowl, goes against Wyoming. Georgia faces Georgia Tech, Florida plays at Miami, Fla., Vanderbilt meets Tennessee, Texas Christian faces Baylor, Houston takes on Rice and Utah plays New Mexico in some of the major ones.

The best known of the rivalries will be the Army-Navy game before a usual sellout crowd of 100,000 at JFK Stadium in Philadelphia.

Hockey Player Gets Pie In Eye
BOSTON (AP) — Former Boston Bruin Dave Forbes laughed as he wiped gobs of shaving cream away from his eyes. He had just been "pied." And an entire television audience saw it.

Forbes, drafted by the Washington Capitals from Boston earlier this year, was being interviewed live on TV between periods of the National Hockey League game between Washington and Boston.

In the middle of a Forbes comment, a figure appeared on the TV screen and slapped the pie square into Forbes' face. The pie pusher fled off the screen and WSBK interviewer John Peirson, without losing composure, continued the interview.

Forbes paused for a second, then asked Peirson, "Do you have a towel?"

Sports writers at the Boston Garden said Forbes could not have been angered by the mess. They said the attacker was John (Frosty) Forristall, an assistant trainer for the Bruins and a Forbes chum.

Panthers Squeak By Westfall 55-52

By TOM SPRING
Herald Sports Writer

Westfall kicked off its 1977-78 inaugural cage game hosting Southeastern and lost to the Panthers in a heart-breaker by a score of 55-52.

Southeastern, last year's Class A state finalists, had a rough go this time around against the Mustangs. Fans on both sides of the court got their money's worth however as the match-up was very even and the contest went down to the wire.

Rick Schrader, one of the Panthers' returning from last year, started things off with a bucket at 7:17 but Tommy Adams came up with a counter at 7:06. The game was nip and tuck throughout the quarter with Westfall gaining a 14-13 advantage on two free throws by sophomore Mike Whitten with time out in the first quarter.

Schrader and Jeff Detty, a 6-foot-6-inch junior, paced the Panthers with six points apiece in the second quarter as they squeezed out a three point lead in the final 90 seconds of the half for a 30-27 edge.

The Mustangs came out firing in the second half, however, and, with senior guard Randy Hartzell leading the way, Westfall came back to tie 38-38 on Hartzell's jump shot at 2:53.

Hartzell's fourth bucket of the quarter gave the Mustangs a two-point advantage but Detty scored a bucket for the Panthers; Adams hit one for Westfall and Mitch Holton's last second shot for Southeastern knotted the score at the end of the third period 42-42.

The final quarter was a defensive struggle with both teams forced more and more to take the outside shot. Bruce Starkey put the Scarlet and Gray two up but Detty tied the score. After freshman Jerry Mowery hooped a shot at 2:28, Holton and Joe Dresbach put the Ross County cagers up 51-48.

At this point, with the ball in Southeastern's hands, Hartzell stole the ball in the back court, drove down and put a rebound from Bruce Starkey's shot in the basket. Starkey then followed with a turnaround jumper at 1:20 to put Westfall ahead by one.

A foul gave Schrader two free throws and the sure shot stuck both in to turn the score around 53-52. The Panthers then went into a stall and Westfall had to foul in order to get the ball back. Again, Schrader was the victim and he responded with two points to put the game in the win column for Southeastern.

Randy Hartzell took scoring honors with nine field goals and a free throw good for 19 points. Bruce Starkey added 10 for Westfall. Tom Adams hooped eight, Chris Weaver sank five, Larry List, Mark List, Kevin Creamer, Mike Whitten and Jerry Mowery each netted two markers.

Senior Rick Schrader sank four goals and nine from the charity stripe for 17 points for the Panthers. Jeff Detty canned 12, Toby Kellough had eight, Randy Seymour, Steve Stauffer, Mitch Holton and Joe Dresbach each tossed in four and Sam Eldridge scored two.

The Mustangs shot 48 percent from the field hitting 24 of 49 field goal attempts. Southeastern hit only 37 percent on 18 of 48 attempts.

Westfall sank four of nine free throws. The Panthers scored 19 points on 28 charity tosses.

The Mustangs grabbed 26 rebounds with Adams taking seven, Weaver five, Hartzell and Larry List four each. Southeastern brought down 12 off the boards.

Westfall head coach Mike Eckle said afterwards, "Southeastern played well. We did some things against (their) zone that we hadn't been doing in scrimmage. The thing that hurt us the most was we made too many turnovers," he said, referring to the 20 miscues by the Mustangs.

Southeastern had eight. "The kids hustled well," Eckle said and the coach thought Westfall's aggressive play was responsible for some of its own turnovers.

"Randy Hartzell did an outstanding job tonight (and) he sat out parts of the second and fourth quarters in foul trouble," Eckle said.

"Freshman Jerry Mowery did a super job for us in the second quarter and sophomore Mike Whitten did a good job. Starkey came off the bench and got 10 for us."

The Mustang reserves dropped their contest 47-38. Westfall trailed by quarter scores of 13-6, 25-13 and 39-23.

Pacing the Mustangs' attack was David Rousch and Jerry Mowery with eight points apiece. Joe Valone, Dan Comer, Tracey Puckett and Mike Whitten scored four each and Chuck Sollars hooped a field goal.

Lee Snyder scored 16 and John Richter added 10 to pace the Panthers. Scott Eldridge netted six, Steve Fisher five, Kevin Smith and Joe Dresbach four and Ken Elder two for the Panthers.

The Mustangs are 0-1 in Scioto Valley Conference play and will visit Huntington Saturday. Other SVC cage results were Unioto 50, Paint Valley 46; Piketon 64, Zane Trace 49 and Adena 63, Huntington 40.

Lapchick Memorial Cage Tourney Opens

By The Associated Press

He wasn't just another guy named Joe.

"He taught me a lot about life," St. John's Coach Lou Carnesecca says of Joe Lapchick. "The most important thing I learned from him was humility. He once gave me a card that said, 'Peacock Today — Feather Duster Tomorrow.'"

"I remember that — and I still carry that card in my wallet after all these years."

To St. John's Sports Information Director Bill Esposito, Lapchick was the ultimate humanist and the all-time No. 1 public relations man.

"He was the fellow who put us on the map nationally," says Esposito. "Joe WAS St. John's when he was here. He was always selling the product, selling the school. He not only made a lot of friends for himself, but for St. John's as well."

The revered "Big Indian," most successful of all St. John's coaches before his death in 1970, has been remembered by a lot of people for a lot of different reasons — but never officially until the Joe Lapchick Memorial Tournament was started in 1975.

Now in its third year, it's become a fitting testimonial to a powerful legend.

The tournament opening tonight at St. John's Alumni Hall, one of several around the country starting the 1977-78 college basketball season with a bang, includes a four-team field of 20th-ranked St. John's, Old Dominion, Niagara and Lafayette.

Along with the Lapchick tourney, four others will be started tonight and another on Sunday. The Spider Classic in Richmond, Va., features St. Joseph's, Pa., William & Mary, Virginia Commonwealth and Richmond. VMI, Virginia, Roanoke and Madison will be competing in the Virginia Tipoff at Charlottesville, Va.

North Carolina, the nation's No. 1-ranked team in the pre-season poll, will wait until Saturday night to open its season, playing Oregon State at Charlotte in one of the more significant inter-sectional games.

The IPTAY Tournament (short for "I pay thirty a year" — an alumni fund-raising battle cry at Clemson) features Clemson, Texas Christian, Ohio and Rhode Island. At the New Orleans Classic in the Crescent City, it's Eastern Michigan, Louisiana Tech, Tennessee-Chattanooga and New Orleans.

The Maryland Tipoff at Landover, Md., will begin Sunday with 14th-ranked Maryland, Georgetown, Navy and American U. The Terrapins will be busy this weekend, opening the season with a game tonight against Bucknell.

In other games involving ranked teams that day, No. 2 Kentucky hosts SMU; No. 4 Notre Dame meets Mississippi; No. 5 San Francisco entertains San Francisco State; Brigham Young visits No. 6 UCLA; Akron plays No. 9 Cincinnati; No. 11 Syracuse takes on Cornell; No. 12 Purdue entertains Xavier (Ohio); No. 13 Michigan plays Western Kentucky; No. 16 Minnesota meets South Carolina and No. 17 Wake Forest tackles North Carolina-Wilmington. UCLA's busy Bruins will be in action again Sunday, playing Seattle.

Former Tiger Manager Dies

DETROIT (AP) — "Auld Lang Syne" echoed from the Tiger Stadium organ that day in September 1970 following a Cleveland Indians-Detroit Tigers baseball game.

Soon afterwards, Mayo Smith showered and dressed for the last time as manager of the Tigers.

"It always will end this way," he said. "I said it before: you either get fired here or somewhere else."

Smith, who guided Detroit to an American League pennant and World Series triumph over St. Louis in 1968, had just been fired by Tigers General Manager Jim Campbell. Billy Martin eventually was named Smith's successor.

"That hour glass is filled with sand and time will take its course," Smith said as he left the press room for the last time.

On Thursday, Thanksgiving Day, Edward Mayo Smith died at a hospital in Boynton Beach, Fla., two days after suffering a stroke while dining with his family in a Lake Worth restaurant. His daughter said he never regained consciousness.

Smith, credited with engineering the short but brilliant career of Denny McLain, who won 31 games in 1968, spent the last seven years in retirement in Florida. He was 62.

"I can't promise we'll win the pennant," he said just before the 1968 season. "I don't know how those things come out. But this team really grew up last year and I know we'll have a stronger team effort in 1968."

His 1967 team battled Boston to the wire before losing out to the Red Sox by one game on the final day of the season.

"I grew a year older in the last two days of the 1967 season," Smith said. Smith, who was raised in Lake Worth, spent 36 years in baseball. He played with the Philadelphia Athletics and later managed in the New York Yankees' farm system.

He went on to manage Philadelphia and Cincinnati before taking over the Tigers after the 1966 season. Charlie Dressen began the 1966 season as manager, but died of a heart attack and was replaced by Bob Swift. He was sidelined by lung cancer and Frank Skaff took over.

Smith's Tiger teams compiled a composite 363-285 record. His last squad, in 1970, finished fourth in the East Division with a 79-83 record, 29 games out of first. His pennant team was 103-59.

He is survived by his widow, Louise; his daughter, Judith Wolfe, of Miami; a son, Fred, of Lake Worth; and three grandchildren.

WEAVER FIRES - Westfall's Chris Weaver (21) goes up to loft a shot toward the bucket in Wednesday night's action against the Southeastern Panthers. The Mustangs put up a fierce fight, but dropped the fray to the defending SVC champions by a close 55-52 count. The Scarlet and Gray travel to Huntington Saturday to take on the Huntsmen in another SVC clash.

Cincinnati Moeller Seeks 3rd Straight AAA Grid Title

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — John Brideweser would like to go four-for-four in the success column in the Rubber Bowl this season.

If he accomplishes a 1,000 batting average, the Canton McKinley coach will pull off the upset of the season against topranked Cincinnati Moeller.

Moeller's Crusaders, considered by many as one of the alltime greats of Ohio prep history, are bidding for their third straight Class AAA playoff title and 36th consecutive victory against the Bulldogs Friday night.

Moeller is 11-0-0 this year and easily won The Associated Press' regular season poll. McKinley, beaten only by Massillon in 11 contests, ranked fourth statewide.

The Class AA and Class A championship games follow Saturday in the Rubber Bowl with Crooksville, 9-2-0, facing Ashtabula St. John, 9-1-0, for the A title at 4:30 p.m. and Elyria Catholic, 11-0-0, defending its AA crown against No. 2 ranked Cincinnati Wyoming, 100-0, at 7:30 p.m.

McKinley beat Akron East in a Rubber Bowl scrimmage in August, trimmed Akron Garfield during the regular season and followed with a semifinal decision over Cleveland St. Joseph.

"If it snows, it would kill us," said Brideweser, whose Bulldogs will rely on speed to spill Moeller's vast depth and strength. "We've never seen them play in person. That hurts, too."

Gerry Faust, Moeller's energetic mentor, also worries about good footing. "On a dry field," he said of McKinley, "they're very quick."

Both coaches agree the team that maintains a ball-hogging ground control attack will have the best shot at the title.

The Class AA will be a classic matchup.

Bob Lewis' Wyoming teams have lost only 21 times in the last 22 seasons. He's had 10 unbeaten campaigns and finished second in the 1975 playoffs to Cleveland Holy Name.

Jim Rattay, 21-1 in two Elyria Catholic coaching seasons, was a kindergarten pupil when Lewis launched his Wyoming career.

"Size will be a problem for us," said Lewis. "We're really small in the line. But our kids control the line of scrimmage, really fire out."

Lewis knows his biggest headache is halting Bryan Thomas, just two yards shy of 2,000 rushing this year for the defending champion. "We don't have any sprinters who can catch Thomas in the open," he said.

Rattay worries about Wyoming's unique seven-man defensive line. "They've got a man on every offensive blocker and have a lineman free in the middle. We're going to have to make adjustments," he said. "It's more difficult to run inside on this defense."

Craig Spring, Crooksville's coach, dismisses the experience favor given for St. John. The Fighting Herdals have been in the playoffs three times in their six-year history, finishing second to West Jefferson in 1976.

"We don't feel it's an advantage," said Spring. "We had to win our last seven games just to get in the playoffs. That's as much pressure as these kids

Turkey Day Pro Tilts Turn Into Runaways

By The Associated Press
Bob Griese missed his Thanksgiving turkey, so he feasted on the next best entree: St. Louis Cardinal.

Griese ripped an injury-riddled St. Louis secondary with six touchdown passes, including three to wide receiver Nat Moore, and directed Miami to a 55-14 rout of the Cardinals Thursday to keep the Dolphins' National Football League playoff hopes alive.

"I didn't think it was going to be this easy," Griese said after coming within one touchdown pass of equalling the NFL onegame record. "The line was blocking well and it was just a matter of hitting the open man."

Griese's six touchdown passes established a Miami club record and was the most productive game for a quarterback since Joe Namath threw the same number against the Baltimore Colts in 1972. Miami's point total also established a team record.

In the other Thanksgiving Day game, Chicago overcame a 7-0 half-time deficit and defeated Detroit 31-14. Griese marched the Dolphins, 8-3, to touchdowns on their first two possessions against the Cardinals, 7-4, who were playing without safety Mike Sensibaugh and cornerback Lee Nelson.

He culminated the first drive with a 4-yard pass to Moore and climaxed to second with a 7-yard pitch to Duriel Harris.

"They had a situation (injuries) and we had an opportunity. We could run and we could pass."

Griese chose mostly to pass, completing 15 of 23 for 227 yards. He closed his first-half aerial barrage with touchdowns of 9 and 28 yards to Moore and hit Gary Davis and Andre Tillman with strikes of 17 and 37 yards in the would want to see.

"We might be in awe of the stadium," Spring added. "Our players play on fields that seat 2,000 at the most during the season."

Paul Kopko, who coaches St. John, has 17 of his 22 regulars back for the 1976 state runnersup. That, he suggests, is vital.

"Our poise going into the game will help us," said Kopko, whose team features a 5-foot-5, 145-pound gamebreaker. Mark Cellitti has gained more than 1,000 yards the last two years.

second half.
The defeat snapped a sixgame Cardinals winning streak. It also was the most points surrendered by St. Louis in their 58-year NFL history.

Cardinals Coach Don Coryell had a simple analysis after the game:

"We just got the holy heck kicked out of us by a team that is far superior to us," Coryell said.

Bears 31, Lions 14

Walter Payton scored two touchdowns, one on a 75-yard pass from Bob Avellini, and Chicago exploded for 31 points in the second half to defeat Detroit.

Avellini also threw a 45-yard touchdown pass to Bo Rather and scored on a one-yard plunge as the Bears moved within one-half game of the Minnesota Vikings in the National Football Conference's Central Division.

"We were lucky to stay close in the first half with all the mistakes we made. But we hung in there and didn't collapse," Bears Coach Jack Pardee said. "In the second half we executed better and took the game to them."

Detroit scored on a 52-fumble return by Ed O'Neil and a 16-yard touchdown pass from Greg Landry to David Hill.

Robinson Looking At Brewers Post

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Former Baltimore Orioles star Frank Robinson reportedly is interested in the vacant manager's post with the Milwaukee Brewers.

Robinson, currently managing a Mexican team, was quoted by the Milwaukee Journal Thursday as saying he called Harry Dalton, the newly-hired general manager of the Brewers, to congratulate him on his new job.

Kuhn Says Baseball Draws Fans

NEW YORK (AP) — Everything in baseball is not euphoric, but America's favorite pastime is floating on the wave of what Commissioner Bowie Kuhn calls "the Fidyrych Syndrome."

"We have a new generation that has fallen in love with the game," the tall, low-key executive said, his optimism reflecting the rosy color of his shirt. "In the past few years we have seen our young people move more toward the arts and cultural things, and I think you can say that baseball, with its non-violent nature, has benefitted from this trend."

"I don't consider it presumptuous when I say baseball is attracting more young people than any other major sport. More and more, these fans relate to the game's personalities."

"Mark Fidyrych is a manifestation of it — a unique individual that has brought new stimulation to the sport. How long has it been since you saw a crowd call a player out of the dugout to take a bow after the game was over?"

The barons of baseball go into their winter meetings in Honolulu in less than two weeks facing a slate of headaches — some new, some old. Topping the agenda probably will be the economic problem, rising out of the unrealistic multi-million dollar price tags on free agents, threatening to

Pistol Pete Is Jazz King

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Pete Maravich snatched the ball from Brian Taylor, glanced quickly at the clock which showed four seconds remaining, and sprinted for a layup at the buzzer to give the New Orleans Jazz a 131-129 victory over the Denver Rockets.

Maravich's basket broke the tie created by Len Robinson's 18-foot field goal seconds before. It was a tense ending of a National Basketball Association contest that saw 11 lead changes and 15 tied scores Thursday night.

"Can you believe this?" shouted Jazz Coach Elgin Baylor. "What a game! What a win!"

In the NBA's only other game, the Cleveland Cavaliers defeated the Phoenix Suns, 97-82.

throw the competitive scales off balance.

Old scorched acorns include the crunch in the Bay Area (where Oakland and San Francisco provide one too many teams for the population); the prospect of getting a franchise in Washington, D.C., where a watchdog Congress resides plus the collective bargaining agreement and television contract, each of which has two more years remaining.

But the baseball brass can go to the peaceful islands Dec. 5-9 with buttons popping over an attendance boom which keeps breaking records every year. Crowds in 1977 were up 22 per cent over 1976 and 26 per cent over 1975. The 54,244,382 fans in 1977 represented a total increase of 20 million over the previous two seasons.

Spectator interest carried over to the playoffs and World Series, with total attendance for 15 games — 813,005 — exceeding that of the 17 games played in 1976. The World Series alone drew 337,708.

"A baseball game is not just a contest — it is a happening," said Kuhn, an imposing 6-foot-5 figure who maintains a pokerstraight physique and low profile. "It may sound corny but I think it best reflects the personality of the country. It involves conflict, hot emotions, partisan feelings."

"It also involves personalities — especially personalities."

The commissioner cited the World Series as the best example.

"I don't recall a Series — not even the exciting Boston-Cincinnati Series in 1975 — that generated as much talk," he added. "Two old rivals, the contrast in the two teams and the exciting players."

"The volatile Reggie Jackson ... the young, attractive Steve Garvey ... Sparky Lyle ... and the two contrasting managers, Billy Martin and Tom Lasorda."

Kuhn acknowledged that the princely salaries, automatically turning players into superstars, may have contributed to the surge of new interest, but he gave much of the credit for the game's attendance spiral to the emergence of Mark "The Bird" Fidyrych.

Fidyrych is the flighty Detroit pitcher who burst on the scene like a thunderclap as a raw, uninhibited rookie in 1976 and mesmerized fans with his mound antics and winning ways. He talked to the ball, did gardening around the mound and won baseball games.

It was on a nationally televised game in Detroit June 28, 1976 that "The Bird" dazzled the Yankees 5-1. Thousands remained in the stands, cheering wildly until Fidyrych came out to take a bow. Fidyrych continued to fill ball parks until suffering an arm injury last season.

"Fidyrych popularized the curtain call in baseball," said Kuhn. "Now it's become a baseball tradition."

Most Men Believe Finding Job Is Matter Of Luck

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A study of unemployment and under-employment in southeastern Ohio shows most of the men interviewed believe that finding a job is just a matter of luck.

The study was conducted by researchers from Ohio State University. They asked 123 male heads of households in Jackson, Meigs, Gallia and Vinton counties: "What do you think it takes to get a good job — being in the right place at the right time or hard work?"

The study shows three fourths of those asked believe that being in the right place at the right time was the deciding factor, while only 19 percent thought hard work was the key.

Study coordinator Nancy Rudd, an assistant professor of home management and housing, said, "these findings seem to indicate a prevailing attitude among these men that they cannot help themselves." She called that attitude "a serious problem."

By comparison only 36 percent of those asked the same question in a national survey of men between the ages of 40 and 55 attributed finding a job to luck, she said.

Still, 90 percent of the Ohio men polled remained convinced they should work, she said, adding that most of those seeking jobs said they had not found work because none was available.

Ms. Rudd said those surveyed were identified by neighbors and social agencies as having employment problems and are not considered a cross-section of heads of households in the four counties.

Airplane Flies

To Service Station

GALT, Mo. (AP) — When an airplane runs out of gas in flight the pilot is usually happy just to get down in one piece.

The unidentified pilot of a single-engine Cessna passing over Galt on Thursday was more choosy.

He put the craft down on Missouri 6, rolled down a hill to a self-service pump in front of a liquor store, filled up and took off again.

"He decided he had to have some gas, I guess," said Alan Childress, an employee of a nearby service station who witnessed the landing.

It was not clear whether the plane was out of fuel or just running low, but Childress said it almost hit a car when it landed on the highway.

In 1976, more than 38,000 miles of interstate highways were in operation in the United States.

This competition is sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States and by the Ladies Auxiliary of the VFW.

The contestants' topic of discussion for their speeches this year was "My Responsibility to America." The local competition was organized by Miss Joy Miller through her speech classes. The winners were chosen by the CHS English Department.

Ruth, Kathy, and Kathleen will now go on to be in the district competition, which may lead to the state competition, and possibly to a five-day all-expense paid trip to Washington, D.C.

Seven Schools In SCOL Day

By TERESA TOMLINSON
and DEANNA CRAWFORD

The SCOL Visitation Day was held last Wednesday with seven South Central Ohio League schools participating. Student Council sponsors this annual event.

In order for students to become more aware of CHS and to see just exactly what goes on, four students from each school visited CHS. In return CHS sends four students to each of the seven SCOL schools.

Students served as hosts and hostesses to show the visitors around and to point out to them the main areas of the school.

To become an exchange visitor a student must fill out an application answering certain questions about why he would like to go, where he would like to go, and why he feels he is qualified.

There were 27 hosts and hostesses from the sophomore, junior, and senior classes.

The SCOL schools participating and Circleville students that visited them were Greenfield-Vicki Adams, Jim Gates, Juli Schneider, and Stan Lasoski; Hillsboro — Amy Schneider, Sherry Leist, Carol Moore, and Chris Wellman; Madison Plains — Jim Groves, Andrea Downing, Diana Bensonhaver, and Teresa Hartman.

Teays Valley — Paul Johnson, Jan Phillips, John Morehart, Judy Fischer; Washington Court House — Craig Schein, Lori Smith, Theresa Stevenson, and Anthony Smith; Wilmington — Alyse Bergen, Heather Timberlake, Cheryl Smith, and Mike Linton; Miami Trace — Cathy Price, Theresa Cushing, Jackie Miller, and Laurie Kazmierczak.

Many of the visitors from the other schools thought that CHS was friendly and was "a good school." One student from Washington C. H. commented that CHS was cold and that they had "HEAT at their school!"

JANET GIFFEN

By JANET SPRING
This week's new student is sophomore Janet Giffen, a former student of Teays Valley. While she liked Teays Valley's hours, she said Circleville is less strict and the people are friendlier here.

Janet lives at 344 East Franklin St. with her parents, Judy and Bill Giffen, and three sisters. She is 15 and goes to the Church of the Bible Covenant.

Things that Janet dislikes includes study halls and "stuck-up people." She likes swimming, softball and boys.

By BARB HIVELEY

The Circleville Junior High School's Guidance Department is holding a series of parent group meetings.

The purpose of these meetings is to identify areas that CJHS students are experiencing and having difficulty with. "We hope to discuss the areas and hopefully, provide alternative solutions," explained Mrs. Sharon Wilamowski, junior high guidance counselor.

The next two meetings are this Monday night and Dec. 12 in room 104 at the junior high school. Those parents wishing to attend are asked to enter the building at the South Court Street entrance. The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. and last until approximately 8:30 p.m.

The first meeting was held Nov. 15. The guidance counselors said that they would like to thank those enthusiastic and concerned parents who showed up for that meeting.

If anyone has any questions, he may call the junior high guidance department at 474-1521 during school hours.

Students Urge Police To Tighten Security

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — At the urging of students at Mansfield Senior High School, police have tightened security around the school grounds.

More than 600 members of the 1,200-pupil student body signed a petition requesting greater police vigilance because they felt disruptions by non-students around the school were tarnishing the school's image.

A fight outside the building between several adults not associated with the school earlier this month precipitated the petition action.

Arlo Plough, principal, said problems caused by illegal parking, drag racing and other disturbances have diminished considerably since the student pleas to police.

New Snow Falling In Areas Of Midwest

By The Associated Press

As new snow fell in areas from the Rockies to the Midwest, melting old snow was causing some flooding in Oregon today.

Locally heavy snow was expected through portions of the northern and western mountains of Wyoming, and travelers' advisories were in effect in parts of Idaho, Washington state, South Dakota, Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana Michigan.

A heavy snow watch was in effect for southern Wisconsin, and winter storm watches were posted over parts of Ohio. For tonight, the watches reached western New York and northeastern Pennsylvania.

In Minnesota, one to three inches of snow fell Thursday night, leading to the death of David Lynn Cannedy, 23, of Amarillo, Texas, in a two-car collision.

Nebraska had snow flurries, and one to four inches was expected in Illinois - the first significant snow there this season.

In Colorado, where light snow fell Thursday, ski business was booming but high winds were buffeting the front range of the Rockies.

In Oregon, rain melted a blanket of snow in the state's western region, and the National Weather Service said coastal streams would overflow their banks locally, with major flooding on the Coquille River of southwestern Oregon. More rain was expected today.

A cold front extended from the Atlantic across extreme north Florida to the Florida panhandle, then along the Gulf Coast to south Texas. With it came variable cloudiness and patchy dense fog over parts of Alabama, Mississippi, Georgia and Florida, with showers over Florida.

Arizona and the southern half of California were sunny and warm.

The National Weather Service forecast snow from the upper half of the Mississippi Valley to the Great Lakes region and the upper Ohio Valley today; rain from the lower Ohio Valley to the Appalachians and through the middle and South Atlantic Coast; showers from the northern half of the Pacific Coast into Idaho and northern Utah, with snow in the higher elevations and the extreme northern Plateau; cloudy skies over the central Plains and in Colorado and southern Texas; clear or partly cloudy weather in other areas.

Temperatures were expected to stay cold from the northern Plains into the Great Lakes but to be warmer in the northern Rockies. The rest of the northern United States was expected to be seasonably cool, and most of the South to be mild.

Overnight temperatures ranged from 19 below zero in International Falls and Warroad, Minn., to 73 in Key West, Fla.

FRANKLIN STOVE

THE FRANKLIN

We've improved on Benjamin Franklin's masterpiece, but we haven't taken away its original charm. The Franklin is still an enchanting beauty that enhances the decor of any room you put it in—it's ideal for heating family rooms, recreation rooms, add-on rooms, etc.

FIREPLACE, BARBECUE GRILL, EFFICIENT HEATER
With the doors open, you've got a bright and cheerful fireplace. Use the optional swing-out grill for year-round barbecuing. With the doors closed, heating efficiency improves considerably. The heavy, cast iron frame then retains the heat and gently radiates it into the room.

DURABLE, ADAPTABLE
The hearth, firebox and main top are made of heavy steel plate that will not crack under heavy firing. The Franklin uses wood, coal or charcoal and features a built-in damper control. Adaptable for gas logs.

146 Lives Lost On Nation's Roads

By The Associated Press
Accidents have claimed 146 lives on the nation's streets and highways, with more than half of a four-day Thanksgiving weekend still ahead.

The National Safety Council has estimated 460 to 560 persons could die in traffic over the weekend that began at 6 p.m. Wednesday and ends at midnight Sunday.

The council said an average of 530 highway deaths occur during a non-holiday period of equal length at this time of year.

Thanksgiving auto travel claimed a record number of lives in 1968, when 764 persons died. The toll last year was 467.

Travel this year was aggravated in northern areas by snow that stretched intermittently from the Pacific Northwest to New England. Travel advisories were in effect for a dozen states from Washington to Michigan.

"Big Ten Football" by Mervin D. Hyman will give you the inside story of the famous Midwestern conference. It provides a nostalgic look at the life and times, great coaches, players and games of the Big Ten teams.

If you enjoy fine food, "The Fair Lady Cookbook" by Annette Kesler will provide you with some tempting recipes. The book gives ingredients in both metric and standard measures.

They were golden people in a golden era. "Mary Pickford And Douglas Fairbanks" by Borton Herndon is the biography of the most popular couple the world has known.

Will and Ariel Durant are the authors of one of the most famous works of scholarship in American literary history, "The Story Of Civilization." Now, in a dual autobiography titled "Will And Ariel Durant" we travel with them on their fascinating intellectual journey and share in their love for each other and their hunger for ideas.

Lowell Thomas continues his autobiography with "So Long Until Tomorrow." This book follows the author's adventures from Quaker Hill to Kathmandu.

Nicolas Freeling has written a "what if" disaster novel. "Gadget" is edge of the chair fiction as a nuclear research technician and his family encounter some very strange happenings.

"Paradise Alley" is slated to become a film. Sylvester Stallone has written a novel about three brothers, born and bred in Hell's Kitchen. Three different personalities, they come together in a scheme to get rich quick by way of the wrestling game. It's a story full of energy, vitality and heart.

Joan Fleming is a master at the suspense novel. "Every Inch A Lady" is a murder tale with a romantic triangle thrown in.

"Bliss" by Elizabeth Gundy is a tale of romantic tragedy. Bliss was a bumpkin, Leona was a college professor, Hazel was an ordinary wife longing for a new dryer and TV set. Together the three lives combine in a haunting, bittersweet story.

Add some Crime Club mysteries and some Double D westerns for your holiday weekend fare.

When you think Christmas, think Pickaway County Public Library to help you with your plans.

Veterans Questions Answered

EDITOR'S NOTE: Each week the Circleville Herald will publish a series of questions and answers of interest to veterans. These questions and answers are some of the many presented to James P. Shea, Pickaway County Veterans Service Officer. Any veteran desiring further information concerning his Veterans Administration Benefits should contact the Veterans Service Officer at 219 South Court Street.

(Q). I was in World War II. Is it too late to file a claim with the VA for disability that occurred while I was in the Army?

(A). It is not too late, but it will be very hard to establish after 30 years after service. However, I firmly believe that we can secure all evidence of your disability that is possible, and file the claim at once.

I am a widow of a World War II veteran. My husband who recently passed away was married previously and divorced from his first wife. However, he did not change his beneficiary on his Government Life Insurance from his first wife to me. He has however, named me in his will to receive all of his estate. Who will get that Government Life Insurance?

(A). His first wife, even though divorced from him will get his Government Life Insurance. The VA must pay the insurance to the person shown by the veteran as his beneficiary. Even though remarried to you, if he did not change his beneficiary with the VA, the first wife gets the money.

(Q). I am a widow of a World War I veteran. I received a VA death pension for a number of years and it discontinued when I remarried. I am now divorced, from my second husband. Am I entitled to again receive VA death pension from my first husband?

(A). Yes you are. VA regulations state that if you remarry, and your second husband dies, or if you are divorced, you are again entitled to benefits from the first husband.

(Q). I am receiving a 40 percent service connected disability. Am I entitled to VA Out Patient treatment?

(A). You are entitled to VA Out Patient treatment for your service connected disability only. Now, if you were rated 50 percent or more, you would be entitled to VA Out Patient treatment for any disability whether it be service connected or not.

(Q). Is it too late to file for the Vietnam bonus?

(A). Regulations state that claim for the Vietnam bonus must be filed or postmarked no later than December 31, 1977. No claims will be accepted after that date.

SCOUT SS II WINS BAJA 1,000 RACE

Two months ago, the Scout SS II won the off-road world championship race.

And last Friday, another Scout SS II finished first in the toughest, longest, and most demanding of all off-road races: the Baja 1,000 KM.

Imagine a race that required nearly 20 hours of continuous driving through 660 miles of suspension-pounding rocks, hub-deep sand, and axle-pounding holes. Imagine a race where 3 out of 4 vehicles will break-down and never finish. Jerry Boone, a Scout dealer from Parker, Arizona, accepted the challenge of the Baja — and conquered it in a Scout SS II.

And guess who was #2, again? That's right, jeep. The International Harvester Scout SS II finished the Baja race nearly 1 1/2 hours ahead of the 2nd place finisher, a Jeep CJ7. A total of 21, 4-wheel drive vehicles in Class 3 (production 4x4 vehicles) began the race in Ensenada, Mexico but only 6 finished this grueling test of vehicle performance and endurance. The winning Scout SS II ran even faster than Class 4 entries, which are modified 4-wheelers.

It's been less than 11 months since the SS II was first introduced. And after this important victory, there is no doubt about it — Scout SS II is the hottest 4-wheel drive vehicle around.

Once again, Scout leads the way!

Tax Law Changes Not Likely Soon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Maybe the income tax system isn't such a disgrace after all.

The crowds used to cheer when Jimmy Carter vowed a complete overhaul of the tax code. "It is a disgrace to the human race," he'd say, and they would cheer some more.

But attacking the tax laws and rewriting them are vastly different undertakings.

"All my life I have heard promises about tax reform, but it never quite happens," Carter said in accepting the Democratic presidential nomination. "with your help we are finally going to make it happen. And you can depend on it."

But not now and not soon.

The prospect now is that Carter will recommend that Congress enact tax reductions in the $15 billion to $20 billion dollar range in 1978, but that he won't propose any major overhaul until later.

His package apparently will include some minor changes the administration can call a first installment on the promised reform effort.

When he was campaigning, Carter said it would take him at least a year in office to put together a detailed, comprehensive tax reform plan. He said he won't going to try to do it one piece at a time because that way, interest groups could concentrate their forces to block action on their favorite tax preferences.

Through most of the campaign season he avoided specifics, saying only that he wanted to overhaul, simplify and reform the whole 40,000-page tax code, and would do it in such a way as to decrease taxes on the average man.

Setting his administration's agenda, Carter had said that he would come up with tax recommendations early this fall. The draftsmen have been at work for months. Their proposals are expected to be ready for Carter sometime next week, and for Congress after it reconvenes in mid-January.

As the timetable slipped, the proposals have become less ambitious, and Secretary of the Treasury W. Michael Blumenthal now says the legislation sent to the election-year Congress will be relatively simple.

Campaigning, Carter was firm and specific on one feature of his tax plan: he always said he would seek to end the tax preference for capital gains. He said all income should be treated alike, so that profits on the sale of stock, real estate or other assets would be taxed at the same rate as other income.

All indications are that the president will not be recommending that change, at least not now.

Under present law, there's a tax break for gains on the sale of assets held for at least nine months. The period increases to 12 months effective Jan. 1. Fifty per cent of such capital gains are exempt from income taxes.

Or the taxpayer can elect to pay a lower-than-ordinary rate on the full capital gain, an alternative which is to the advantage of some people in high tax brackets.

"I intend to take on myself, as a president's responsibility, at one time, a complete and comprehensive tax reform effort," Carter said in a campaign interview. "...I would move to treat all income the same and remove the sharp distinction now drawn depending on where the income is derived."

But Blumenthal, in a Wall Street speech on Monday, virtually ruled out a proposal to eliminate the capital gains tax break. "We fully understand the important role that preferential tax rates for capital gains have played in encouraging capital formation — especially for venture capital and new businesses," he said. "We will, of course, take this into account in designing reforms to reduce or eliminate unjustified tax preferences."

The changing outlook on Carter tax proposals stems from competing priorities — and political realities. Congress is likely to do a lot more tax cutting than reforming in the 1978 election year, no matter what the White House recommends.

At 7 percent, unemployment is still a major problem for the administration, particularly as it enters a congressional campaign year. So, as he was a year ago in planning for a new administration, Carter is looking at measures to stimulate the economy, including a tax cut to put more money into the hands of business and consumers. The problem is compounded this time by the fact that Social Security and energy tax increases will work in the opposite direction.

So that campaign promise to overhaul the whole tax code will have to wait, probably until 1979.

THE RADIO HOBBYIST

By Frederick O. Maia
KK8-0924 — WSUT

Executive Director, American Radio Council

The FCC uses both unmarked regular automobiles and specially equipped vans. The cars used bear no special identification and are impossible to tell from other cars but the vans have license plates that indicate they are "U.S. Government" vehicles and the license plates always start with the letters — FC. The vans are loaded with intricate monitoring equipment for all frequencies — not just the Citizen's Band. In fact, very little monitoring of the CB airwaves actually take place from the vans. Most CB monitoring is done from the private vehicles that are equipped with portable directional loop antennas. The FCC is charged with the responsibility of regulating all radio and wire telecommunications — not just CB.

The FCC monitoring van even has a tape recorder for recording transmissions off-the-air for use in court at a later time. The FCC vehicle also carries complete information on all licensed radio operators and stations in the locality (commercial, CB and "ham") on micro-film that can be recalled instantly and displayed on a screen. Station and operator information can be accessed by call sign, location, name of license holder ... also by assigned frequency and business name if a commercial station.

The FCC enforcement personnel usually travel in groups of 2 or 3 when inspecting an area. Locations of stations can easily be ascertained by triangulation — that is each vehicle gets a bearing on the illegally operating station and where the lines cross on a map is the location of the station. Once the illegal station is found — it is placed under radio surveillance for a few days. Then the inspector will knock on the door and ask to inspect the premises. If the inspection is denied by the operator — the licensee will usually lose his license without further examination. Under the present system, and FCC engineer can not force his way into any home or station location. However, the FCC regulations provide for inspection by the commission and all radio-hobbyists agree to it as a condition to receiving their license.

FCC engineers can even determine if a CB station is running illegal power without seeing the linear amplifier. This is easily done by taking field strength readings at different distances from the stations and computing the antenna gain.

The FCC's Field Operations Bureau (the actual name of the enforcement division) places particular emphasis on the following six violations: (1.) Failing to use an FCC call sign, (2.) Using linear amplifiers to boost power above the 4 watt limit, (3.) Using illegal frequencies, (4.) Using indecent, obscene or profane language, (5.) Using CB radio to participate in a crime, (6.) Working "skip" or transmitting further than 150 miles. Penalties for all (except indecent language) could be $500 a day ... using indecent language is a criminal violation subject to a $10,000 fine and a year in jail.

Serious infractions of the rules must be turned over to the Justice Department for prosecution. The FCC does, however, have the authority to levy "forfeitures" — FCC legal term for a fine. During September, the FCC mounted a massive four day nationwide crackdown of illegal CB radio

Carver Can Cut

Up Turkey In Minutes

SEATTLE (AP) — A slice here, a slash there and Rich Erickson can have a 25-pound Thanksgiving turkey entirely boned and reduced to piles of dark and white meat in 2½ minutes.

Erickson, who works for the Turkey House restaurant, had 55 of the birds lined up for an expected Thanksgiving crowd of 1,000.

"I once worked cleaning fish, so I've been rather handy at wielding a knife," he said Thursday.

Restaurant manager Mike Harrison says Erickson's not the fastest bird slicer he has employed, however.

"We had one man who worked for us for seven years and he once did a bird in 57 seconds," said the manager.

Does Erickson like turkey?

"Not as much as I used to, and I'm certainly not having it for Thanksgiving," he said. "I'm having a big, New York cut steak."

operations. Over 100 agents fanned out in 30 areas in the wide ranging enforcement strikes. The crackdown resulted from the increasing number of interference complaints received by the FCC. Hundreds of violators were closed down permanently and fines totalling tens of thousands of dollars were collected. Fines ranging from $50 to $400 with $125, $225, $300 being commonplace.

Even though the FCC is doing their job as best they can, this federal agency is seriously understaffed and under funded. In the past 20 years, radio-hobbyist activity has expanded from zero to over 11 million participants using over 25 million radios! Projections are that there will be more than 20 million licensed CB'ers using 50 million two-way radios by 1979! With all this explosive growth you would expect the FCC budget would be keeping pace...but such is not the case. As a result, the Commission is unable to effectively administer and enforce the rules causing even more hardship to the legally operating radio enthusiasts. It is a sad situation — one that is not likely to improve until the Bureau of the Budget recognizes its responsibility to the general public.

One answer would be to reinstate license fees with all the receipts going to finance administration and enforcement of radio rules. The radio hobby should pay it's own way we feel.

Views On Television

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The scene could fit in a surreal Richard Pryor comedy — the TV and movie star at a pay phone in Big Bear, Calif., saying he felt fine, was on vacation and hadn't had a heart attack.

But that's what the unpredictable Pryor was up to last week.

He'd spent four days earlier this month in a hospital in his hometown of Peoria, Ill., having fallen ill while visiting relatives.

At his request, hospital officials at the time declined to discuss the nature of his illness, but his grandmother was quoted as saying he'd suffered a heart attack.

"No, it wasn't that," the comedian, writer and actor said, speaking softly and seriously. "I had chest pains and I went to the hospital. They decided that I was tired and should rest a while."

He said he'd been put in the hospital's coronary care unit because he had a medical history of heart murmurs. But, he said, tests showed no heart attack, only exhaustion. He now is following doctors' orders.

Which is why he was loafing, away from folks who could call him, but checking in via pay phone in Big Bear while vacationing with his wife, Debbie, 25, whom he married — his third marriage — last September.

"I'm just taking it easy, doing some fishing, getting to know my wife better," said Pryor, 36, who readily admitted his scramble for success left him pooped at the peak and caused his hospitalization.

"I've been working for two years now, and just realized I hadn't taken a break," he said. "And the doctors, of course, told me the body can only do so much."

The non-stop work included concerts, roles in "Silver Streak," "Greased Lightning" and "Which Way Is Up," an NBC special and writing for and starring in his short-lived NBC variety series.

The series, against ABC's "Happy Days" and "Laverne and Shirley," got low ratings. But both Pryor and NBC's programs chief here, John J. McMahon, say ratings aren't the reason the series was discontinued.

They say Pryor originally had a 10-show contract, then got the number of weekly shows cut to four. Both sides then had to agree on continuing the series after that or ending it. They opted for the latter.

A big reason was the crush of Pryor's film work, which includes the coming "Blue Collar" he did this year and the movie version of "The Wiz," on which he says he'll start work in New York on Dec. 10.

Also in the wings are two other projects begun before his hospitalization. One is a script he wrote but declines to discuss. The other is a search for financing of a planned movie, "Gordon Entertaining Nightly," which he co-authored with Paul Hampton.

Sure, those projects are ahead of him, as are two NBC specials a season for the next two seasons, he said. But from now on, his pace is going to be markedly slower, his workload markedly lighter.

The trip to the hospital gave him much food for thought, Pryor conceded: "I was on the treadmill — and you often just get on it and don't look back for a while."

"But it (success) is no good if you don't have your health."

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth sign.

FOR SATURDAY
ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): There may be some conflict between desire and necessity. Be realistic as the Aries usually is, and the answer will come. Romance and travel favored.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Some intrigue possible in social circles. YOU remain discreet and keep involvement to a minimum.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): The accent is now on social activity. Welcome the opportunity to meet people, make new friends, perhaps to make new contracts which could prove invaluable, business-wise.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Do not be deceived by high-sounding promises. Study persons and situations with your usual keen perception, then act as your best judgment dictates.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Personal relations under some of a cloud. Be especially careful in family discussions lest emotional tensions build up.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): You usually like to solve your own problems, but don't arbitrarily reject another's idea. It may be more practical than your own.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Stellar influences now warn against unstable notions and weak or deceptive associations; also indifference, which leads one nowhere.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23): Don't look askance at those who disagree with you or express "way out" ideas. On consideration, you may find that they contain germs of wisdom. Overall, a promising day.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 24 to Dec. 23): A splendid period for proceeding onward to your goals. If you are not working, at least get in some good planning. Good news in the p.m.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 24 to Jan. 23): A day in which to emphasize tolerance and understanding. Grant leniencies that please, without forsaking fair standards.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 24 to Feb. 23): Impulsiveness MUST be avoided now. Also, temperamentalism and going to extremes. In routine matters, you should do well, especially if you maintain a flexible attitude.

PISCES (Feb. 24 to Mar. 23): Be patient if things don't go quite according to plan. An unforeseen, but necessary, alteration of your program could prove quite beneficial in the long run.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a lively imagination and great sensitivity, and are more likely to choose one of the arts as a career than many others of your sign, who generally prefer the fields of business, finance or the law. In this connection, you could especially excel in music, sculpture, painting or literature, with the latter your best bet. You love sports, the outdoors and animals — especially dogs and horses — and may breed them as a hobby. Traits to curb: secretiveness and a tendency toward excessive gambling. Birthdate of: Robert Goulet, singer-actor; Alan King, comedian.

Abandoned Children

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Child abandonment continues to be a growing social problem in the cities of Latin America, according to a recent issue of CCF World News, published here by the Christian Children's Fund.

The publication says that there are an estimated 700,000 homeless children living in the streets of Mexico's largest cities, plus another 60,000 in Chile, and 200,000 in Venezuela. Most, it reports, are between the ages of 3 and 12, and tend to run in packs; they support themselves by stealing or begging unless taken into child care programs.

Rhodes is the easternmost island of the Greek Aegean Sea.

About 50 peaks in the Rocky Mountains exceed the 14,000-foot mark and 1,500 summits climb beyond 10,000 feet in Colorado, says National Geographic.

Schlesinger Should Keep Quiet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Energy Secretary James Schlesinger should keep quiet about what compromises the administration might take to get an energy bill through Congress, some top Carter administration allies on Capitol Hill are saying.

Those defending Carter's energy plan in a House-Senate conference committee say Schlesinger's public statements are hurting chances the administration's own program will win congressional approval.

"I don't know why he feels it incumbent on him to say anything about what he's willing to take," protested Rep. Thomas L. Ashley, D-Ohio, a key backer of the administration bill.

Drawing the fire was Schlesinger's remarks at a news conference earlier in the week that he may be willing to accept higher oil and gas prices than Carter wanted to get the bill through Congress.

A White House spokesman denied Tuesday that Schlesinger was trying to dictate terms of a compromise to conferees.

The House passed most of Carter's energy proposals while the Senate rejected many of its key elements — including the president's plan to keep price controls on natural gas and to impose a tax on crude oil.

Conferees are attempting to reconcile the wide differences between the two chambers.

In a news conference Monday, Schlesinger hinted that to meet Senate objections to the president's plan, the administration might accept a higher price than the $1.75 per thousand cubic feet Carter wants set for natural gas.

He also said the administration might agree to adjusting an oil price control formula to allow greater quantities of oil to qualify for higher prices.

Coming up with a compromise bill is "a very difficult and sensitive situation," Ashley said. He said Schlesinger's comments make that job even harder for the House conferees trying to uphold the president's program.

But Deputy White House Press Secretary Rex Granum argued that Schlesinger "was restating principles and previous statements we have made."

Granum said Schlesinger acknowledged that compromise often is a part of the legislative process but said the energy secretary did not propose any compromise positions.

The White House spokesman said the administration would await recommendations from its congressional allies before considering any compromises.

Meanwhile, Schlesinger's remarks also drew opposition from those who feel the White House is not making enough concessions.

Assistant Senate Republican Leader Ted Stevens noted that Schlesinger, while saying he might accept higher prices for natural gas, also said the administration wouldn't budge from its proposal to extend regulation to intrastate natural gas markets.

"Senators from oil-and-gas producing states will never yield to that. It's a no-win position for everyone," Stevens said.

Only natural gas in interstate pipelines is now subject to federal regulation, at a ceiling of $1.46 per thousand cubic feet. Carter's bill would raise this price to $1.75 while also extending the controls to gas produced and sold within the same states.

Wrong Turn Is Right For Country Singer

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Don King made a wrong turn in life. And it helped him become one of country music's most promising young singers.

Two years ago, King was headed for Jerry Reed's publishing company to try to sell a song he had written. He got confused about where he was and ended up at Con Brio records.

When he mentioned that he was a musician, record company officials asked for a tape of him performing. He made one, and within two months he was recording for the company.

King, 23, now has his third hit this year. "I Must Be Dreaming." The others were "I've Got You To Come Home To" and "The Girl Of My Dreams."

"It's taken a pretty good balance of luck and talent," King said. "I'm taking it all with a big smile."

After graduating from high school in Omaha, Neb., in 1974, he moved to Nashville for a shot at the music business. He bypassed college even though he was a high school honor student for three years.

He spent a year playing his guitar at a local hotel lounge before he knocked on the wrong door that changed his life. As one of the chosen few among the dozens here trying to get into the music business, King is well-qualified to offer advice.

"Patience is a virtue," he said in an interview in a recording studio after polishing numbers for his second album. "Listen to everybody but don't take persons' word for law."

"If you are able to write, your chances are much better. If you can write, the people here will automatically hear your voice because you'll play them some songs."

"The proving ground for artists is nightclubs, whether you're on your own or in a group. You learn a lot about entertaining. You'll be amazed how much you learn in six weeks and how

Ironworker Wins Lottery

CLEVELAND (AP) — Ironworker Gregory Pappas got some welcome unemployment compensation with a $25,000 lottery prize Thursday night.

Pappas, 41, beat three-time winner Georgia Holland of Cleveland Heights in the weekly televised lottery giveaway and gets a chance to come back next week to defend his title.

Mrs. Holland won $150,000 in her three appearances.

Pappas, who is married and has three children, said he was laid off indefinitely at the U.S. Steel Corp.'s American Bridge Division in Lorain a couple of weeks ago because of production cutbacks.

When "this is over and done," Pappas said he's thinking of taking a trip back to his native Greece.

Pappas came to this country with his parents "right after the war in 1945, and I've been threatening to go back ever since but never made it."

John H. Malone of Dayton was the big winner in the TV Bonus drawing with $50,000. Bruno Sestito of Middleburg Heights won $10,000 in the TV Bonus drawing, and Aubrey Griffin of Cincinnati won $5,000.

Other winners in the 50-cent game were George Sotak, Parma, $8,600; Renavdin Natal, Cleveland, $6,500, and Ross Cooper, Eastlake, $7,700.

Businessman Discovers Stock, Gives It Away

NATCHEZ, Miss. (AP) — The urge to be philanthropic can come at odd moments.

It came for J. Balfour Miller, 85, while he was rearranging his stock portfolio in the wee hours of a sleepless night.

As a result of his nocturnal bookkeeping last week, Miller discovered 1,600 shares of a stock he didn't know he had. The next day Miller sold it and donated $50,000 of the profits to the Trinity Day School in Natchez.

"Finding that stock was just one of the many blessings I've enjoyed since I was sick," Miller said. "I told myself, 'You're going to give that money away and you're going to give it away immediately.'"

Miller, who was hospitalized earlier this year with bleeding ulcers, said he thought he knew his holdings by heart until he came upon the unfamiliar shares.

Police Investigate Rash Of Offenses Recently

Circleville City Police investigated a rash of criminal offenses during the past few days.

Terry Hicks, 330 E. Mill St., told Ptl. Ron Smith that someone removed two guns from the gun rack behind the seat of his truck between 2:30 and 8:30 a.m. today. The truck had been parked at the rear of the house and was locked, Hicks said. The glove box had also been opened. The Springfield .22-caliber bolt action rifle is valued at $50 and the Smith and Wesson 357 Automatic is valued at $100.

Mrs. Boyd Horn, 225 Walnut St., said a greenhouse window was broken late Wednesday or early Thursday. Horn said several windows have been broken during the past week according to Ptl. Smith's report.

Ptl. Smith found two double doors unlocked in front of Atwater School Wednesday night. Two rubber balls were found on the playground and two others were found on the roof of the school. Nothing else appeared to be disturbed, Smith said.

Adam Saxour, 29, 113 N. Scioto St., said Thursday that someone removed a boys' 20-inch red, white and blue bicycle with a red and white seat at an unknown time. The bike is valued at $46.

Mack Wise, 146 E. Franklin St., told city police Thursday that someone removed a wooden varnished paper box from his front porch.

Steve Lunsford, 25, 213 W. Ohio St., reported a breaking and entering Wednesday. Ptl. William Fries reported that entry was gained by forcing a bathroom window open. An assortment of food was taken from the kitchen, and some blankets and a $30 coat were also taken. Lunsford said the incident occurred between 10 p.m. Tuesday and 2 a.m. Wednesday.

Felicia E. Sparks, 39, 430 N. Court St., said someone took a 20-inch yellow Huffy boys' bicycle with a black banana seat. The bike, valued at $50, has no front fender and was taken from the back yard.

Mary Stephenson, 1979 Florence Chapel Road said that at 8 a.m. Wednesday a man called the General Electric lamp plant on East Ohio Street and said that there was a bomb in the building.

Steven J. Sines, 25, 532 S. Scioto St., said someone removed two CB antennas from his auto which was parked in front of his home. The antennas, valued at $30, were taken at 7:50 p.m. Wednesday.

Marge Moore, 468 E. Ohio St., said someone removed a green 20-inch boys bike with black banana seat from her residence. The bike has the name "Dill Pickle" on it, and is valued at $69. It was taken Tuesday.

Paul E. Parsons Sr., 56, 347 Walnut St., said that a CB radio was stolen from his car between 11:30 p.m. Wednesday and 4:17 p.m. Thursday. The car had been locked, Parsons said. The Granada Model CB-4 23-channel radio is valued at $45.50.

Sheriff Probes Two Thefts

The Pickaway County Sheriff's Office investigated two reports of theft over the past 48 hours, according to reports filed at the Sheriff's headquarters.

The first occurred at 12:46 p.m. Thursday at the Heck's Discount Store in the Wacker Shopping Center south of the city.

The report states that Steve J. Romeo, manager, told Deputy Sheriff Ken Henn that a male subject grabbed a display of Zippo cigarette lighters from a display stand and fled the store. He ran to a pickup truck in the parking lot that was operated by a second male subject, and the pair then fled south on U.S. Route 23.

Deputy Nick Franklin was in the area and was alerted to the incident. He spotted the pickup truck on 23 and saw it turn onto River Road headed westbound. He gave chase, and a short time later he stopped the vehicle on River Road, approximately 2 miles east of Radcliff Road.

Deputy Bill Dountz arrived on the scene a short time later, and the pair was placed under arrest. They were transported back to the county jail by the two deputies.

The men were identified as James D. Miller, 29, and Robert E. Miller, 23, both of Chillicothe. They were both charged with grand theft. James Miller, the driver of the truck, was charged with willfully eluding a police officer.

The second theft occurred at the Town Tavern, 220 E. Main St. in Tarlton, between 10 p.m. Tuesday and 8 a.m. Wednesday.

According to the report, the culprits entered the tavern through a window in the men's restroom. Once inside, they pried open the coin boxes on the cigarette machine and the pool table and removed the money from both. They also took cigarettes and a jar of money from behind the bar.

Total value of the missing merchandise, including the money, was set at $355.

Handicapped Couple Buys Dog For Protection

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — David and Jerri Conarroe, a handicapped couple, aren't afraid of prowlers anymore. They have a friend in Bobby, their new 80-pound German shepherd.

The Conarroes had spent two months living in fear of intruders. Their apartment was broken into three times and each had been attacked once. Although they've had him less than a week, Bobby already has sent an intruder crashing through the back door, leaving a tattered shirt behind.

"Now we can sleep without worrying. We don't have to be scared," Conarroe said of their new protector.

Conarroe, 27, is crippled with a spinal disorder and his 25-year-old wife has a speech impediment.

"It's hell. It's so frightening to be defenseless because you're handicapped," Conarroe said. "It's hard to lie on the floor, unable to move because someone so much bigger throws you down and then grabs your wife."

Conarroe suffers from spine bifida, a deformity in which structures of the lower spine do not unite properly. Because of the disease, Conarroe says he is defenseless against an attacker.

"What this essentially means is if I had to defend me or my wife, someone could punch me in the ribs and I'd melt into a pile of oatmeal," he said.

"My wife has a speech impediment and when she gets nervous or scared, she can't hardly speak. When the guy came in our house the first time, she couldn't even scream."

Their worries eased this week though, when Conarroe's father bought them Bobby — a usually friendly German shepherd who is short-tempered when it comes to intruders.

Monday night the couple went out for a walk with Bobby. When they returned home, they let the dog go into the apartment first.

"Just as I turned on the light I saw this guy standing by the table," Conarroe said. "Then I saw Bobby lunge over the table after him. I heard this crash; I guess it was the guy falling through the back door."

"By the time I got out the back alley, Bobby had hold of the guy by the skin on his stomach. I gave Bobby the command to retreat and he came back with the guy's shirt."

Police say they have no clues to the break-ins — other than the shirt.

Jewelry, Turkey Stolen From Home

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — As if having $5,000 in jewelry stolen wasn't enough to ruin a suburban Amherst couple's Thanksgiving, the couple discovered when they walked into their kitchen that thieves had also made off with their turkey.

Mr. and Mrs. George Privateer were gone 45 minutes Thursday night, and police said that's all the time it took for burglars to pry open a door and steal a "good haul" of jewelry and the 7-pound turkey.

Pedestrians represent three of every eight persons who are killed in city traffic accidents.
